CLINICAL JOURNAL FOR NURSE PRACTITIONERS IN WOMEN'S HEALTH

The Official Journal of the National Association of Nurse Practitioners in Women's Health

SPECIAL ISSUE

Focus on Women's and Gender-Related Health Research

Watch for the inaugural Special Research-Focused Issue of Clinical Journal for Nurse Practitioners in Women's Health in May 2026.

CALL FOR MANUSCRIPTS

Plans are underway for a 2027 issue. We are seeking manuscript submissions reporting original research (quantitative, qualitative, outcomes, mixed methods). Systematic reviews may be considered.

- Manuscripts should report on research that has implications for women's health nurse practitioners and other advanced practice registered nurses (APRN) who provide women's and gender-related healthcare.
- Manuscripts must include at least one author who is an APRN and who participated in the research.
- Authors should send an email query to editor-in-chief Beth Kelsey, EdD, APRN, WHNP-BC, FAANP bkelsey@npwh.org before submitting a manuscript.
- See the authors' guidelines for this special research-focused issue.
