CLINICAL JOURNAL FOR NURSE PRACTITIONERS IN WOMEN'S HEALTH

The Official Journal of the National Association of Nurse Practitioners in Women's Health

Clinical Journal for Nurse Practitioners in Women's Health (CJNPWH) is seeking peer reviewers with expertise in quantitative and/or qualitative research methodologies. We will include a methodology expert in the review of each of our research-focused issue manuscripts. This will add to the initial reviews by our co-editors, Dr. Casey Hopkins and Dr. Ella Heitzler. We will also include a topic expert in the peer reviews. Methodology reviewers will not necessarily have expertise on the topic of the manuscript. Peer reviewer forms will be provided, and reviewers will be given 2-3 weeks to complete the reviews.

Peer reviewer qualifications include being an active member of NPWH and a board-certified nurse practitioner or nurse-midwife.

If you are interested in joining us as a research methodology peer reviewer for the special research focused issue of CJNPWH send your CV with a brief email that provides your name, credentials, contact information, and area of research methodology expertise to Dr. Casey Hopkins chopki@clemson.edu and Dr. Ella Heitzler ella.heitzler@georgetown.edu.
