

Air Medical Journal Announces Leadership Transition and Opens International Search for Next Co-Editor-in-Chief

The Air Medical Journal Association (AMJA) announces a leadership transition within the Air Medical Journal. We extend our sincere appreciation to Jacqueline C. Stocking, PhD, and Eric R. Swanson, MD, for their many years of dedicated service to the Journal and to the air medical and critical care transport medicine community. Their commitment has contributed meaningfully to the strength of the AMJ, and we thank them for their contributions.

As we move forward, AMJA is launching an exhaustive international search for the next Co-Editors-in-Chief of the Air Medical Journal. The application window will open November 21, 2025, and will remain open through February 7, 2026. We invite innovative, motivated, and mission-driven leaders to apply.

This transition presents a pivotal opportunity to advance the Journal's mission: to advance the scientific knowledge base of critical care transport medicine through peer-reviewed clinical and academic material. During the search period, Adam Gottula, MD and Craig Tschautscher, MD will serve as Interim Co-Editors-in-Chief, ensuring continuity and supporting the strategic vision of the Journal.

The Air Medical Journal Association looks ahead with optimism and a renewed commitment to accelerating scientific dialogue and supporting the professionals who advance lifesaving care in the air medical and critical care transport medicine fields.

On behalf of the Air Medical Journal Associates,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "Adam Gottula".

Adam Gottula, MD
AMPA Managing Partner

Air Medical Journal Associates Executive Board

Brian Ceraolo, NRP, MA, FP-C, CFC, CMTE
I-CAPP Vice President

Adam Gottula, MD
AMPA Managing Partner

Sue Hollowell, CFRN, FP-C, CMTE
ASTNA Past-President

James Houser, CFRN, CMTE
AAMS Board Chair

Jenn Killeen, MHA, RN, NRP, CFRN, CPEN, CMTE
ASTNA President

Danny Nayman, NRP, MBA, FP-C, CCP-C, CMTE
I-CAPP President

Michael O'Brien, MD, FACEP, FAEMS, FAMP, NRP
AMPA President

Brett Reeder
Helicopter Pilot
NEMSPA President

Jana Williams
AAMS President & CEO