Association of Independent California Colleges and Universities Report: Institutional Level Campus Climate Survey

In response to concerns raised during the 2016 legislative session on perceived discrimination against LGBTQ students at faith-based independent colleges and universities, the Association of Independent California Colleges and Universities (AICCU) developed a campus-level climate survey to provide information regarding the services and policies surrounding LGBTQ students across the sector.

The following report details the findings.

INTRODUCTION

In December 2015, the Human Rights Campaign issued a national report “Hidden Discrimination: Title IX Religious Exemptions Putting LGBT Students at Risk.” This report generated deep concern among members of the California State Legislature resulting, in the introduction of two bills: Assembly Bill 1888, by Assembly Member Evan Low, and Senate Bill 1146, by Senator Ricardo Lara. These measures took different approaches but were focused on ensuring that private, nonprofit colleges and universities, with religious exemptions, protect LGBTQ students from discrimination.

The Association of Independent California Colleges and Universities (AICCU) took the concerns of the Legislature and the LGBTQ community seriously and worked throughout 2016 to find ways to be responsive, while at the same time remain true to our commitment to the right of students to attend their college of choice, our responsibility to protect and nurture all students, and to ensure that each and every student can achieve their college objectives.

AICCU opposed AB 1888, which prohibited students from receiving Cal Grant awards, if they attend institutions with legally authorized Title IX regulatory exemptions from the United States Department of Education (USDE). This would have had a devastating impact for low-income students attending these institutions. At the same time the AICCU worked with Senator Lara on SB 1146 to provide greater transparency and accountability with regard to Title IX regulatory exemption institutions hold.

In addition to supporting this legislation, AICCU committed to provide the Legislature with a campus climate report for California’s private, nonprofit colleges and universities, within the confines of privacy protections for student data under the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act. The purpose of this report is to provide greater information, policies in place at campuses, and to broaden the understanding of the campus climate.

The following is AICCU’s institution level campus climate report.

RESEARCH METHODOLOGY

---

Average Undergraduate Enrollment of Participating Institutions:

- All Institutions – 2,411
- Secular – 2,372
- Faith Based – 2,578
- Title IX Regulatory Waiver – 1,915

Average Cal Grant Enrollment of Participating Institutions:

- All Institutions – 439
- Secular – 397
- Faith Based – 498
- Title IX Regulatory Waiver - 407

AICCU created its first ever institution-level campus climate survey<sup>1</sup> for both faith-based and secular undergraduate serving institutions. The question set was developed with an opportunity for input from Equality California and both author's offices. The survey was reviewed by AICCU institutional researchers of both faith-based and secular institutions before being sent to all members for completion. All information collected has been aggregated and the results have been compiled by AICCU's director of research and publications.

The survey was sent to all 70 AICCU undergraduate institutions in March 2017. Reminders were sent to institutions urging completion of the survey in late March, April, and May 2017. The final responding institutions completed the survey in June 2017. Institutions were informed that the survey would collect information on services provided to students, codes of conduct, harassment/complaint processes, housing policies, and athletic policies. Thirty-eight institutions (54 percent) completed the survey through SurveyMonkey; of those, 20 are faith-based, including six of the eight member institutions with a regulatory Title IX exemption<sup>2</sup>. Of the two campuses with a regulatory exemption, that did not complete the report, both have an exemption dating back to 1985.

FAITH RELATED QUESTIONS

Institutions were asked if religious preference is tracked and, if so, how. Of the 38 participating AICCU institutions, 23 of the 38 institutions (secular and faith-based) track or are aware of a student's religious preference. Eighteen of the 20 faith-based campuses (90 percent) track or are aware of religious preference, while only five of 18 secular institutions (28 percent) are aware of religious preference. This student information is collected via the application process (17 colleges ask during the application process and three of them make the question optional), and through institutional research/surveys. Of those that do not track religious preference, three are faith-based colleges. Every responding institution with a Title IX regulatory exemption is aware of the religious preference of their students.

<sup>2</sup> The statutory Title IX exemption is granted by US federal law, and is granted automatically to faith-based institutions. The regulatory Title IX exemption is granted by the US Department of Education, and was created after Congress extended the exemption to faith-based colleges.

All faith-based institutions offer religious services to students; however, 45 percent of participating faith-based institutions do not require attendance from their students. Of those that do track attendance:

- Three have attendance cards filled out at each chapel (or similar) service
- Five scan student ID card
- One institution tracks attendance, but students are given options of different program offerings to meet attendance requirements
- Two track attendance through student life or other campus office

LGBTQ RELATED QUESTIONS

Institutions were asked if LGBTQ status of students is collected and/or tracked, and, if so, how. Of the 38 participating AICCU institutions, 10 track or are otherwise aware of LGBTQ student status—six of these campuses are secular. One secular and one faith-based campus report the information is collected, if the student voluntarily discloses the information. The other institutions are aware of the information through either the common application<sup>3</sup> or another survey instrument (generally campus climate surveys).

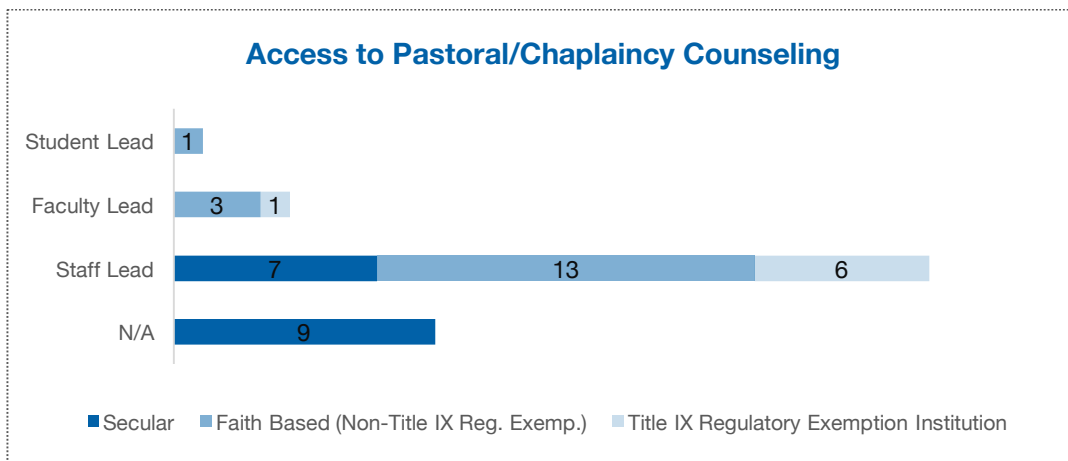

Twenty-six institutions have student-led LGBTQ clubs on campus: 16 secular<sup>4</sup> institutions and 10 faith-based institutions. In addition to the student-led clubs, seven campuses provide clubs led by faculty or staff. Some institutions provide multiple leaders (students and staff, or students and faculty) for their services/clubs. The chart below provides additional detail on the status of LGBTQ clubs across AICCU responding campuses.

<sup>3</sup> The common application is an undergraduate college admissions application that applicants any use to apply to any of the over 700 member colleges and universities in the United States.

<sup>4</sup> Two of the 18 participating secular institutions are non-traditional campuses and do not provide social student clubs.

Twenty-nine of the 38 (76 percent) campuses reported providing access to pastoral or chaplaincy counseling for its entire student population. Some institutions provide multiple leaders (students and staff, or students and faculty) for their services/clubs.

CODES OF CONDUCT

All institutions have student codes of conduct<sup>5</sup>. Institutions were asked how and when Codes of Conduct are shared with students and if codes are signed before a student may enroll. All six campuses with a Title IX regulatory exemption require students to acknowledge agreement to abide by the campus' Code of Conduct; of these, four indicated a student must acknowledge the Code of Conduct when applying to the institution.

<sup>5</sup> See Appendix 2 for Student handbook/Codes of Conduct for all 70 AICCU Institutions

Examples of how/when Codes of Conduct are shared with students:

- Emailed to all students
  - Before they enroll
  - Every semester
- During student orientation
- Institution website
- Living area meetings
- Online central repository
- Student Handbook
- When applications are submitted
- Workshops

HARASSMENT/COMPLAINT PROCEDURES

Every campus has a Title IX complaint process as required by state and federal law, in addition to other complaint processes varying by campus. This information is made available to students through a variety of methods. Secular and faith-based campuses provide information to students in similar methods. In addition, while not in the survey, the U.S Department of Education – Office of Civil Rights also investigates student complaints, and the Bureau for Private Postsecondary Education serves as the student complaint portal for all WASC-accredited private, nonprofit colleges in the state.

Ways students are made aware of anti-harassment policies/complaint processes at institutions with a Title IX regulatory exemption:

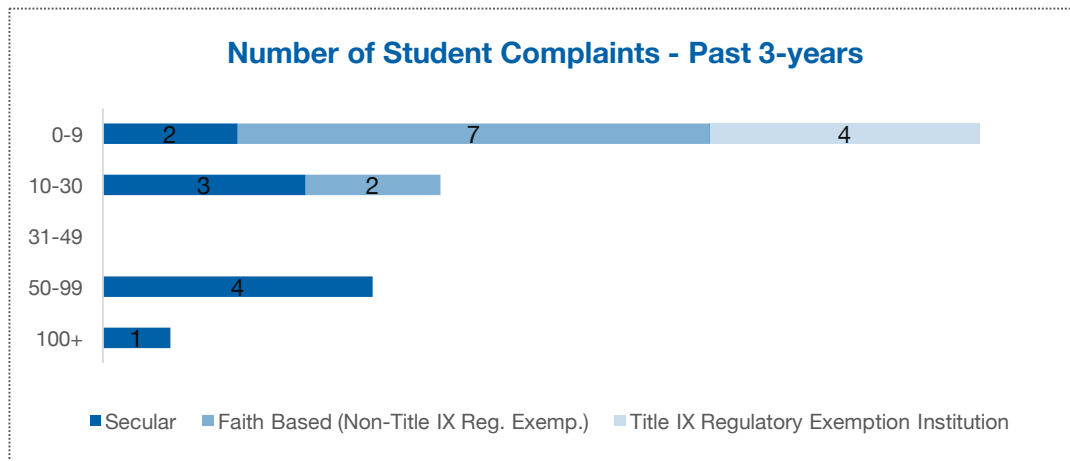

- Annual training course
- Before enrolling, student must sign the Student Handbook
- During student orientation
- During harassment training in orientation
- Reference included in application, handbook, and website
- Through email, Facebook, or resident assistant reminders throughout the school year
- Various awareness weeks
- Website

Ways students are made aware of anti-harassment policies/complaint processes at other institutions:

- Annual publications and seminars
- At new student orientation
- Emails
- In-person training
- Online module
- Posters

- Prior to new student orientation
- Student Bulletin
- Student handbook
- Website

Institutions were asked: In the past three years, how many student complaints (formal or informal) were filed and the categories of complaints:

Institutions without a Title IX Regulatory Waiver – Student Complaints<sup>6</sup>

Over the past three years, the majority of these campuses experienced less than 10 cases; only five campuses, all secular, had more than 50 complaints in three years<sup>7</sup>. Of reporting institutions, the institution with the highest number of complaints also has the highest enrollment.

Categories include (in alphabetical order):

- Academic
- Assault
- Battery
- Bullying
- Dating violence/abuse
- Discrimination
- Domestic violence
- Electronic harassment
- Exploitation
- Favoritism in grades
- Gender based misconduct
- Harassment
- Hostile interaction

<sup>7</sup> The median number of complaints for these institutions was 18 over the past 3 years.

- Inappropriate behavior
- Inappropriate conduct
- Intimate partner violence
- Non-consensual sexual conduct
- Non-consensual sexual penetration
- Physical Assault
- Sexual assault
- Service/quality complaint
- Sexual exploitation
- Sexual harassment
- Sexual misconduct
- Sexual violence
- Stalking
- Theft
- Unfair treatment
- Verbal harassment

Institutions with a Title IX Regulatory Exemption – Student Complaints

In the last three years, these campuses had between zero to nine student complaints per campus<sup>8</sup>.

Categories include (in alphabetical order):

- Discrimination
- Harassment
- Sexual assault
- Sexual harassment
- Sexual misconduct
- Sexual violence

The U.S. Department of Education Campus Safety and Security provides a resource<sup>9</sup> to the public that allows individuals to search and compare by type of institution, location, enrollment, and instructional program and see the number of all types of crimes reported on a college campus in the nation.

HOUSING POLICIES

Institutions were asked what the housing policies are for all students, LGBTQ students, and married students. Thirty-three of the campuses offer undergraduate housing. Housing policies are listed online<sup>10</sup>. Of the participating institutions, only six campuses offer married student housing, one being a faith-based institution. Given that campus housing policies are extensive, most institutions provide links to their policies. Of those that provided additional comments:

- Nine secular institutions and one faith-based institution specifically highlight their policies regarding accommodations for LGBTQ students, including five that have gender inclusive/neutral housing. One faith-based campus stated that special accommodation could be made as necessary, for LGBTQ students.
- Of the faith-based campuses, two campus cited housing will be based on gender at birth, or special accommodation for those students who were born with ambiguous gender at birth. This policy is disclosed to students and is available online.

ATHLETICS POLICIES

The question was asked what are the campus athletic policies for all students and LGBTQ students. All of the AICCU institutions who offer athletics, are members of either NCAA<sup>11</sup> or NAIA<sup>12</sup>. In order to participate in college athletics, campuses comply with their respective associations' guidelines on transgender students.

Of the 38 participating institutions, 26 have a student athletics department<sup>13</sup>. In answering the question, 11 campuses referred to extensive online policies, four to their associations' policies, and three secular campuses commented that their transgender students use locker rooms of the gender with which they identify.

HEALTH SERVICES

Campuses were asked what campus health services were provided to students. Health services vary campus to campus at both secular and faith-based institutions.

Examples of Health Services provided for students at institutions with a Title IX regulatory exemption (in alphabetical order):

- Campus nurse; doctor referrals
- Care for any urgent and emergent medical and psychological conditions that occur on campus

<sup>10</sup> See Appendix 4 housing policies for all 70 AICCU members

<sup>11</sup> <http://www.ncaa.org/compliance>

<sup>12</sup> <http://www.naia.org/ViewArticle.dbml?ATCLID=205327260>

<sup>13</sup> See Appendix 5 for Athletic Policies of all institutions

- Counseling services
- Full-time nurse on campus
- Health Center also coordinates care with other campus departments, such as the Learning Center, Counseling Center, Psychiatry, Campus Safety, Housing, and Risk Management.
- Health education
- Immunizations
- Medical appointments
- Mental health counseling
- Nurse/nurse practitioner appointments
- Over the counter, self-help medication
- Primary care for all students for acute, chronic, and psychological conditions, including eating disorders
- Prompt (often same-day) care, including on site lab testing and early treatments
- Travel related services

Examples of Health Services provided for all students at institutions without a Title IX regulatory exemption (in alphabetical order):

- Counseling Services
- Counseling and psychological services
- First Aid & Wellness Center
- General medical/health/wellness services
- General preventive care
  - Physical exams
  - Treatment for acute illnesses and injuries
  - Travel study physicals and immunizations
  - Women's health
  - Men's health
  - STI Screening (Sexually Transmitted Infections)
  - Reproductive health concerns
  - Gender transition support and hormone treatment
  - Vaccinations and allergy shots
  - Laboratory services
  - Health education and wellness programs
  - Referrals to specialty providers, as needed
  - Travel Student Physicals and Immunizations
- Student Health Insurance
- Student Health Plan administration, wellness promotion, educational programs, and individual support to students (including referrals to providers and community resources).
- Wellness Programming

CONCLUSION

AICCU has completed this first-ever campus climate survey to provide policymakers and the public a clearer understanding of its institutions. It should be noted that AICCU is not a system office (such as found with the public segments) rather an organizational voice for California's private, nonprofit colleges and universities; thus, the completion of this survey is a testament to our interest in and commitment to all our students. We hope this information is useful to the policymaking community, as well as to our member institutions as we continue our work together to serve all of our students.
