A trip to St. Louis wouldn't be complete without visiting its most famous landmark—the Gateway Arch. Take a one-of-a-kind tram ride 630 feet to the top for breathtaking panoramic views stretching 30 miles in every direction. Explore Gateway Arch National Park, where history meets innovation, and immerse yourself in the documentary Monument to the Dream, a captivating 35-minute film detailing the extraordinary engineering and vision behind the Arch's construction.

Next, embark on a St. Louis Riverfront Cruise aboard the Tom Sawyer, a replica 19th-century paddle-wheel riverboat. Glide along the Mighty Mississippi while enjoying stunning views of the St. Louis skyline and uncovering the rich history of the riverfront. Sit back, relax, and enjoy a boxed lunch as you take in the sights from the comfort of the boat.

To round off this unforgettable excursion, travel to Noboleis Vineyards in historic Augusta, MO, where you'll experience handcrafted wines cultivated from a scenic vineyard estate. Whether you prefer bold reds or crisp whites, this visit has something for every palate. Savor a Wine Flight in the tasting room, relax in the loft overlooking the production area, or take in the rolling vineyards from the picturesque hilltop pavilion.
