Nearly 40 years ago, leaders in Liberal and Seward County recognized that in order to prosper, our community needed to provide educational opportunities beyond high school. Initiatives at the state and federal level provided the chance for Liberal to apply to the Kansas State Board of Education for the opportunity to establish a technical school and a community college. The State Board of Education granted the requests and Liberal was authorized to establish two separate post-secondary institutions – Liberal Area Vocational Technical School (later Southwest Kansas Technical School) and Seward County Community College. Those individuals in our community who developed the applications, advocated for the approval, and helped garner local, regional and state support had a great vision for Liberal and the entire region.

Both institutions have served our area well. Thousands of students have completed classes and programs, earned degrees and certificates, started businesses, completed university degrees, and established careers. It’s quite likely that nearly every resident of Liberal, Seward County, and most surrounding communities have attended a class or someone in their family has attended a class at either SWKTS or SCCC.

Now the community will realize the next step toward providing high quality, effective education. The SWKTS and SCCC merger became a reality on July 1, 2008. After much deliberation and effort by the USD 480 Board of Education and the SCCC Board of Trustees an agreement was signed that brings the technical education programs and courses offered at SWKTS under the operations of SCCC. The agreement was approved by the Kansas State Board of Regents, the Higher Learning Commission of the North Central Association, and the United States Department of Education. The administration, faculty and staff at both SWKTS and SCCC have been diligent to insure an effective transition is available to students, and that the programs and courses meet the needs of the community, employers, and developing industries.

Many business plans address the “next generation” concept of keeping the business profitable and viable. When one considers a generation as 20 years, we realize that SWKTS and SCCC are entering the third generation of operations. Just as in many businesses and industries, the third generation is one of significant evolution and change. The merger begins the next generation of operations and with it fantastic opportunities for effective change resulting in increased educational opportunities for students, Seward County, and the entire region.

We welcome you to visit our campus and see what changes are occurring as the merger is implemented.

Two employees retire from SCCC

In announcing her retirement after 27 years at SCCC, Ann Judd said she felt she “made a positive contribution to some people’s lives.” She had a call to teach and was confident she could make a difference. And make a difference she did. She said when she began teaching she had an organized plan. Later she enjoyed discussing things with her students as they came up and liked to insert humor into her teaching. Ann ended her teaching career in May and became a first-time grandmother.

John Loucks, who will retire at the end of June, began teaching part-time at SCCC while ministering at the First Christian Church Disciples of Christ in Liberal. After five years he became full-time as Humanities and Social Science Division Chair and teacher and also sponsored Phi Theta Kappa. “I consider SCCC family. I will miss the week-to-week, semester-to-semester encounter with different students.” He and his wife, Gretchen, plan to move to Washington.
SCCC connection continues for second generation of graduates

Connections is what the Seward County Community College Alumni and Friends Association is all about. One such family that has more than one connection to SCCC is Stu and Melissa (Brainin) Moore and their daughter Jenica, a 2008 graduate.

Jenica said she chose SCCC because “I was ready to be away from home, but not FAR away.” She also liked the fact that SCCC was small and she wouldn’t get lost going places. Her father, Stu, attended SCCC from 1982-84 and played baseball. Her mother, Melissa, attended from 1982-83 because of her boyfriend, Stu, who later became her husband.

Jenica, who received an associate in science degree with an emphasis in natural science plans to attend Washburn University in Topeka to pursue a bachelor’s degree in athletic training and upper-level degrees in physical therapy.

While at SCCC, she participated in Students in Free Enterprise, choir and Phi Theta Kappa, the national honor society. She said her greatest experience was the opportunity to travel to New York City with the choir to sing in Carnegie Hall. “I also enjoyed getting to know different people,” she said which is something she wants to continue to do at Washburn. She also wants to keep her grade point average high, get involved in different programs and achieve her physical therapy degree.

“SCCC gave me a good feel for what college is really like, and what actual studying is, instead of just looking over homework the night before the test,” she said. “Now I feel ready to move onto bigger and better things.”

Her father came to SCCC from El Paso, Texas, to play baseball. He also was a member of Student Government Association, the Crusader staff and Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

“SCCC allowed me to build a solid foundation for my career in education,” said Stu, who received an associate’s degree with an emphasis on education. After SCCC, he received a bachelor’s in education from Emporia State University and completed his master’s in education and doctorate in educational administration from the University of Southern Mississippi. He taught and coached in Elkhart for ten years and is completing his 10th year as principal in Moscow.

In addition to his experiences on the Saints Baseball Team, he said he remembers learning to enjoy writing while in Mrs. Judd’s English class at SCCC. He also remembers playing baseball in the snow, “which was strange having come from playing high school ball in the warm climate of El Paso.”

Jenica’s mother, Melissa, came to SCCC from Dallas, Texas, to study fashion merchandising. She was on the Crusader newspaper staff and cheerleading squad and a member of Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

Being in a small-school setting was a good way to start college,” said Melissa, who transferred after one year to Emporia State University. “I learned what it was like to live in a small town.” She now teaches first grade in Moscow.

Melissa received her bachelor’s of science degree in early childhood and elementary education from Emporia State and a master’s in administration from the University of Southern Mississippi. She has taught elementary school in Elkhart, Ulysses, Satanta and Moscow.

“My experiences at FCA meetings were very positive as my relationship with God deepened,” she said. “I also enjoyed my classes and the individual attention from instructors.”

McSpadden inducted into NJCAA hall of fame

SCCC head baseball coach, Galen McSpadden, joined junior college baseball immortality recently, as he was inducted into the NJCAA Baseball Hall of Fame. He is one of 80 current members in the exclusive hall of fame membership and the first individual from SCCC to be inducted into the NJCAA Hall of Fame.

“The NJCAA Hall of Fame represents the best of the best in community athletics,” Dr. Duane Dunn, SCCC president, said following McSpadden’s induction. “Galen’s induction is very well deserved. His selection is a recognition by his peers across the country of his ability to coach, teach, influence, and model the ethics of sportsmanship and knowledge of the game of baseball.”

A career filled with coaching achievements, mentoring successful student-athletes, and winning games is just the start of McSpadden’s impressive résumé, which includes 27 years of coaching the Saints.

McSpadden has put the Seward County baseball program on the map with a 916-494 overall record since becoming the sixth head baseball coach in Seward County history. McSpadden has had 12 Jayhawk West Conference championships, including 11 titles in the last 15 years, 16 straight seasons with at least 33 wins and an average of 41 wins per season since 1993. He has coached 73 Major League Baseball draft or free agent selections, coached 15 NJCAA All-Americans and has sent several hundred players on to play at the four-year level. Twice McSpadden has guided the Saints to 50-win campaigns (1997, 2002) and in 2004, he led Seward County to its first-ever JUCO World Series in Grand Junction, Colo. SCCC placed fifth at the World Series and finished with a 47-16 overall record.

McSpadden has received numerous awards for his coaching excellence, including a four-time Jayhawk West Conference Coach of the Year selection (2008, 2004, 2003, 1998), the American Baseball Coaches Association Regional Coach of the Year (2005), Major League Baseball Scouts Association Coach of the Year (2005) and the NJCAA Region VI Coach of the Year (2004).

He has coached 132 All-Conference selections (74 First Team), 30 All-Region VI selections, nine Jayhawk West Conference Freshmen of the Year, seven Jayhawk West Conference Most Valuable Players and three NJCAA Batting Champions.

He also encourages academic excellence among his players.

The 2007-2008 spring athletic semester was highlighted by a legendary coach being inducted into the NJCAA Hall of Fame, the men’s basketball team’s historic run to a third-place finish at the National Tournament and having several players receiving All-American recognition.

SCCC alum Bryan Zollinger ('86) took the sidelines for his first season at Seward County last November ending with a 32-6 overall record, winning a Jayhawk West Conference championship and NJCAA Region VI title and taking the Saints Basketball Team to its first NJCAA National Tournament in a decade.

The Saints had a magnificent run with Zollinger, which included the upset of the year at the national tourney with a first-round victory over No. 2 nationally-ranked Chipola College, 90-86 in overtime. Sophomore forward Darko Cohadarevic, who has signed at Texas Tech University, was named the Jayhawk West Men's Basketball Coach of the Year and the Kansas Basketball Coaches Association JUCO Men's Basketball Coach of the Year at the College of Eastern Utah, was selected the Jayhawk West Coach of the Year, Region VI All-Tournament Team and NJCAA All-Tournament Team.

The Lady Saints Basketball Team also had an impressive season with a 23-9 regular season conference record, which included a 13-3 record and second-place finish in the Jayhawk West Conference. The Lady Saints, led by All-American Tegan Cunningham, received the program’s first-ever No. 1 Pre-Season NJCAA ranking.

Cunningham was spectacular for the second straight year averaging 21 points and eight rebounds per game. She was once again named the Jayhawk West MVP, First Team All-Conference, First Team All-Region VI, and was named for the second straight year, WBCA First Team All-American. Cunningham broke the school’s all-time scoring record (1,368 points) and was also named a Second Team All-American.

Collins set numerous records, including career batting average (.451), base hits (157), doubles (38) and RBIs (110). Auger and Collins were also each selected Louisville Slugger/National Fastpitch Coaches Association Second Team All-West Region.
