Bre Kathman

Education Specialist – Chesapeake Ceramics

Hi. My name is Bre. Thank you for voting me to the board, I will do my very best to represent the suppliers on the CCSA Board of Directors. Please feel free to call or email me if you ever need anything or have questions, I am happy to help. Here is a snapshot into my world. I work as the Education Specialist at Chesapeake Ceramics, helping studios learn new techniques and information to help make their studios more profitable. I also help design new bisque shapes from Chesapeake! When I am not working at Chesapeake I work at Meltdown, a studio in central Maryland.

In January of 2016 I graduated from Hood College with a master's degree in Ceramic Arts. After 24 of school I am officially done!!! When I am not playing in clay or hanging with my dog, Paisley, I can usually be found at the gym. I am a powerlifter who spends time picking up heavy, awkward objects for just for fun.
