

Terrell Tucker

Terrell Tucker has spent the last 36 years serving education in the Bakersfield area of California. His experiences span from a small district, to a county office of education, and then to “the vendor side” where he helped Lightspeed Systems become a trusted partner for many California districts. He is currently a lecturer at CSU Bakersfield.

Terrell served on the Board of directors for CEDPA, then CETPA from 1995 to 2010. He held most positions, including President twice and Treasurer. Terrell’s connections around the state ensured that the annual conference would have a lot of technology, the right sessions, and since he had to drive from the central valley anyway, he often had to drive a large moving truck with the conference supplies to the conference.

He did all of these things with a calm, friendly demeanor and always has a at least one great story to tell. His contribution to the organization helped make us who we are today.
