BIBLIOGRAPHY OF THE HISTORY OF LIBRARIES IN CALIFORNIA, 1973-2003

by

Suzanne M. Stauffer, Ph.D.

Introduction

This bibliography updates Hannah J. Kunkle’s Bibliography of the History of Libraries in California, which included material through 1972. As with that earlier work, the purpose of this bibliography is to introduce librarians, library historians, and students of California library history to numerous sources on California library development. For this reason, it is limited to selections of published primary and secondary sources from 1973 through 2003 which are readily available to the researcher.

The coverage includes information on public, academic, school, and special libraries in California, the functions and activities of those libraries and the librarians who serve in them, library education and educators in the state, works and articles by and about California librarians, and the various California library associations.

Journal articles, monographs, pamphlets, documents, research papers, theses, and dissertations have been included. The bibliography does not include: Archival materials; newspaper articles; acquisition and selection policies; catalogues or lists of special collections materials; bibliographies on California; union lists; guides to libraries; minutes and annual reports to trustees and boards; displays and exhibits; association reports; library association constitutions; conferences; library clipping files and scrapbooks; reports of the Trustees of the California State Library; Journals of the California Senate and Assembly; and local directories. Unlike Kunkle’s work, this bibliography does include activities of Friends of the Library groups, announcements of awards and library appointments, relevant letters to the editor, and brief obituary notices, in order to serve as a resource for biographical information on California librarians.

Information was extracted from print and electronic versions of Library and Information Science Abstracts and Library Literature, OCLC’s WorldCat database, the California State Library Foundation Bulletin, and Newsletter (California Library Association) (except vols. 15, 17, and 18) and its successor, California Libraries.

The organization follows that of the previous bibliography, with appropriate modifications, as follows. Items are arranged alphabetically by author or title within the appropriate category, and follow the bibliographic format of the Chicago Manual of Style, 14th Edition. References to individual public city, county, and cooperative library systems are interfiled alphabetically by location within Part III. Public Libraries C. Specific Libraries. Government aid to libraries is included in Part I. General References. Given that this is an electronic document, which can be easily searched, the author index was omitted as unnecessary.
