Dear Trainee,

Welcome to the Feldenkrais Community.

The North American Training Accreditation Board (NATAB) accredits training programs, certifies educational staff, and handles complaints related to training program accreditation and staff, on behalf of FGNA.

As you embark on this journey of professional development and self-exploration, we want to bring your attention to some resources that are available to you.

In the event that questions or problems arise, the training program staff is your first avenue of support and communication. This includes the Organizer, Educational and Administrative Director, Trainers, Assistant Trainers and visiting Practitioners.

If you have questions or issues that you have not been able to address through your training program staff, please refer to the following resources:

- Contact NATAB for questions related to training program accreditation and administration: natab@feldenkraisguild.com
- If you feel that your issue is of an ethical nature and you are not able to resolve this within the training program, you should contact the Ethics Committee: ethics@feldenkraisguild.com

These groups work cooperatively to address issues arising in a training context. FGNA staff and volunteers will help you consider alternatives for resolution, which may or may not include filing a formal complaint.

It is the responsibility of NATAB to ensure that your training program meets the Guild's educational standards and that learning occurs in a safe and open environment.

We hope this information is useful to you, and we wish you an inspiring and wonderful training experience.

Sincerely,
North American Training Accreditation Board
