

Florida Society of Pathologists Welcomes Mayo Clinic Jacksonville as Newest Group Member

Expanded relationship continues FSP's robust membership growth

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

September 30, 2026

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — The Florida Society of Pathologists (FSP) is proud to welcome Mayo Clinic Jacksonville as its newest group member. Mayo Clinic pathologists have long been active participants within the FSP community, and the new group membership creates an opportunity to strengthen that relationship and expand collaboration among pathologists across Florida.

“Through group membership, Mayo Clinic Jacksonville pathologists will have greater opportunities to participate in FSP’s educational programs, engage in advocacy and legislative efforts affecting the practice of pathology and connect with colleagues,” said Dr. Craig Horbinski, Chair of the Department of Laboratory Medicine and Pathology at Mayo Clinic Florida.

The addition of Mayo Clinic Jacksonville comes as FSP continues to experience strong membership growth. FSP now represents more than 500 members, with longstanding institutional and group members playing an important role in the Society’s growth and year-round engagement. FSP is grateful for their continued support and participation.

“We are thrilled to welcome Mayo Clinic Jacksonville as an FSP group member,” said Dr. Carmen Gomez-Fernandez, President of the Florida Society of Pathologists. “Mayo Clinic is widely respected for its leadership and innovation in medicine, and we look forward to drawing on their expertise as we continue strengthening our educational programming and creating new opportunities for pathologists to learn from one another.”

FSP has broadened its year-round offerings through initiatives such as the FSP Precision Medicine Academy and interactive Virtual Tumor Boards. The 2027 FSP Annual Pathology Conference will take place Feb. 12-14, 2027, at Disney’s Grand Floridian Resort & Spa.

FSP also maintains a strong presence within organized medicine, with active involvement in the Florida Medical Association and members serving in leadership roles with the College of American Pathologists.

Organizations interested in learning more about FSP group membership can visit flpath.org or contact FSP.

About the Florida Society of Pathologists

The Florida Society of Pathologists represents and supports pathologists across Florida through advocacy, education, collaboration, and leadership in advancing pathology services and patient care.

Media Contact

Phillip Heilman
Communications Manager
Florida Society of Pathologists
phillip@flpath.org