University of Minnesota- College of Education and Human Development	https://sites.google.com/umn.edu/cehdteachonline	This guide was created to deal with situations where in-person class activities are suddenly disrupted and alternative, online tools could be used to keep instruction going. This guide is not intended to provide definitive guidance for online teaching under normal circumstances. Some recommended practices are abbreviated or omitted in this context. Recommendations for more complex online activities such as group work, synchronous meetings and strict compliance of accessibility are limited. The guide includes resources for instructors who are new to online teaching and with ease of use in mind. This is a living resource that will be updated--given new or changed information. If using this resource for your own collegiate unit, please be sure to note appropriate contact information.
