

About

THE CALIFORNIA GROUNDWATER ASSOCIATION (CGA) was founded in 1948 and is a nonprofit organization representing all segments of the groundwater industry in California. Our members include water well drilling and pump contractors, geologists, hydrologists, engineers, government employees, manufacturers and suppliers, and others interested in groundwater and CGA programs. CGA is a state affiliate member of the National Ground Water Association.

Word of Mouth

"Having an abundant resource of members in the same industry to communicate with has been a tremendous advantage. The networking and fellowship is unbeatable! Gaining knowledge and contributing to personal growth have both been key factors in continued membership."

"The network & support from fellow members really helped in our business growth. The little we have put into the association is no where near what we've gotten back. As an individual we can get some things done, but as a team we can move mountains."

"I have been a member since 1974, as a contractor and now a manufacturer/supplier. The connection with the contractors through the various functions has benefited our business. CGA's educational programs have helped us keep updated on the ever changing regulations. The social functions allow us to enjoy fellow peers in the industry while continuing to gain business partnerships."

"Our industry is challenged to make constant improvements. I have experienced CGA's committees to be the driver behind these improvement processes of our association. This association has experienced-top leaders all working toward a common goal of business excellence."

"CGA allows technical members to network with others in the groundwater industry, and provides us with sources of information on products and construction techniques. We also are able to provide contractors, manufacturers and suppliers with geological information to assist them in maximizing well production yields and efficiency."
