HEALTHCARE SUPPLY CHAIN ASSOCIATION (HSCA) WELCOMES LEADING SUPPLY CHAIN MANAGEMENT COMPANY ROi AS NEW MEMBER

Washington, DC (June 12, 2017) – The Healthcare Supply Chain Association (HSCA), which represents the nation’s leading healthcare group purchasing organizations (GPOs), today welcomed ROi, a Missouri-based, nationally recognized leader in healthcare supply management, as a new member.

“HSCA is pleased to welcome ROi as our newest member and we look forward to advocating alongside ROi for policy solutions that help reduce health costs, and increase competition and innovation in the market,” said HSCA President and CEO Todd Ebert, R.Ph. “HSCA members are critical cost-savings partners to American hospitals, long-term care facilities, clinics, and surgery centers, helping to yield the value that allows providers to deliver the best care to patients. The continued growth of HSCA is a testament to the robust and unique line of sight that our industry has into the healthcare system and the resource that we are for the supply chain, policymakers, and healthcare stakeholders alike.”

ROi was founded more than a decade ago by Mercy, one of the nation’s largest non-profit healthcare systems, today serving fellow providers across the United States who share a passion for supply chain excellence. As a provider-owned Accountable Supply Chain Organization™, ROi focuses on all aspects of supply chain, from planning through fulfillment and consumption, to ensuring that the highest quality of care is delivered in the most cost-effective manner. ROi is the only provider to be ranked by Gartner as a top 10 healthcare supply chain every year of the ranking.
