

Jason Klem Design Director & Associate, Gensler

Jason Klem is a Design Director and Associate at Gensler. Currently based in Seattle as a recent transfer from the Washington DC office, his professional focus encompasses commercial office and mixed use architecture projects. Over the past 5+ years at Gensler Jason has served in various roles revolving around the design process. He currently serves as a regional design co-leader overseeing awards, photography as well as supporting design culture across the offices within the region.

A graduate of Philadelphia University (currently Jefferson University), his 16 years of professional experience are shaped by a desire to continuously learn through practice. With a foundation in on-site design-build, his experiences have since varied in scale from campus planning and higher ed architecture to interior architecture. This range of scale has provided a unique perspective in his current practice area focus, providing a thoughtful iterative process leading to tailored solutions for clients regardless of scale, program or locale.

This is Jason's first year serving as a HRACRE judge.
