

Dr. David M. Kopp holds a Ph.D. in Human Resource Development (HRD) and is a Professor and Associate Dean of the Professional Studies Division in Barry University's School of Education. During his 16 years at Barry, Dr. Kopp has published numerous articles and two academic books, the latest published in 2018 on the social history of training and development published by Palgrave MacMillan. A passionate and popular educator, he teaches in both face-to-face and online modalities.

Dr. Kopp has worked with both profit and non-profit organizations for over 25 years and is a sought-after speaker and consultant on leadership, strategic planning, organizational change and performance improvement. Dr. Kopp is also earned the CPLP credential (Certified Professional in Learning and Performance).

He lives in Hollywood with his wife, Sandra, who is a school principal.