Industry Recognition

ICRI members are recognized around the world as companies and individuals that provide the utmost quality in their products and services. It is this recognition that leads customers to you through ICRI services such as our Membership Directory "Who's Who in Concrete Repair." Our on-line search engine breaks down company member contractors, engineers, manufacturers and suppliers by specialties & locations.

Peer Networking & Learning from Others

The greatest value to any organization is the opportunity to meet others in your industry. The people you meet and build relationships with will be the ones you can call upon when in need and will be the ones who may recommend you for a potential job. The more involved you are with ICRI member activities, the more likely you are to be called upon by other members for guidance.

Meetings and Conventions

Networking and exchange of information are paramount at our two annual conventions. Technical sessions, committee meetings, exhibits, demos, and social functions highlight these events and each attendee has a wealth of opportunity to interact with other experts in the industry.
