We are pleased to announce that ISHR’s popular Cardiovascular Webinar Series will resume for 2021. Upcoming webinars will highlight authors and editors of recent research published in ISHR’s official journal, the Journal of Molecular and Cellular Cardiology (JMCC). Upcoming webinars will include discussions with authors of JMCC’s Editor’s Choice selections, special issue editors, and other featured submissions.

Throughout the past year, the ISHR Cardiovascular Webinar Series served as a novel forum for exchange and dissemination of research findings, and we are excited to continue to provide this opportunity in the coming year. We plan to host 1-2 webinars per month. Webinars will be streamed live via Zoom and hosted by JMCC’s Social Media Editors. Webinar times will vary to capture audiences across different regions, and all presentations will be recorded and available to all.

We hope you will join us in the coming months to discuss some of the exciting research published in JMCC and to continue the exchange of ideas that made our 2020 series a success.

Look for announcements on our first webinars coming soon! Information on upcoming webinars will be emailed from ISHR and shared on JMCC’s social media accounts, so be sure to follow us on twitter and facebook.

Please reach out with any questions or ideas for upcoming webinars.

On behalf of the JMCC Social Media Editors,

Davor Pavlovic
University of Birmingham
Birmingham, UK

Kate Weeks
Baker Heart and Diabetes Institute
Melbourne, Australia

Ron Vagnozzi
University of Colorado
Denver, CO, USA

Junjie Xiao
Shanghai University
Shanghai, China