

Annie Young

Annie Young is Professor of Nursing at Warwick Medical School, University of Warwick and Honorary Nurse Consultant, University Hospitals Coventry and Warwickshire [UHCW]). Annie works half time at the University, initiating and implementing research projects with relevant multi-disciplinary teams and half time in UHCW, building the research capacity in the Trust with nurses, midwives and AHPs. This clinical academic approach is ideal for taking research into practice and developing and mentoring colleagues who are participating or interested in research.

Educationally, her focus is on teaching and exchange programmes in cancer care between the University and sub-Saharan African countries and other international collaborators.