Hannah Townsend, OTD, OTR/L, CLT is an occupational therapist specializing in oncology and lymphedema rehabilitation. She began working at Orlando Health in October of 2022, spending much of her tenure working within the Aesthetics and Reconstructive Institute, where she collaborated with the interdisciplinary team to streamline rehabilitative services for patients undergoing reconstructive procedures. Her passion for this specialty began in graduate school after witnessing a close family member undergo extensive breast cancer treatment without access to rehabilitative services - an experience that shaped her commitment to restoring quality of life and contributing to patient advocacy within oncology care. Most recently, Hannah stepped away from her role at Orlando health to spend a meaningful season at home with her four-month-old son, while remaining actively engaged in continuing education and clinical dialogue within oncology rehabilitation and lymphedema management.
