

GSC NEWSLETTER

Vol. 10, No. 2 Graduate Student Committee of the Medieval Academy of America Spring 2018

Greetings from the Chair

The 53rd International Congress on Medieval Studies (ICMS Kalamazoo) is nearly here! If you are attending the conference, I warmly invite you to participate in two free events for graduate students — a roundtable discussion on publishing and an informal social reception—organized by the GSC.

This year, get advice on publication directly from the editors. “Meet the Editors: Tips and Techniques on Article Submission for Graduate Students (A Roundtable)” (Session 183) will feature discussion with Sarah Spence (Speculum), Michael Cornett (Journal of Medieval and Early Modern Studies [JMEMS]), Gale Sigal (The Once and Future Classroom, The Year’s Work in Medievalism), and Chris Africa (Medieval Feminist Forum: A Journal of Gender and Sexuality [MFN]). The panel will take place on Friday, 5/11, at 10am in Schneider 1220.

Please also join colleagues for fun conversation and free appetizers during the GSC Happy Hour (cash bar) on Thursday, 5/10, at 5:30pm in Fetzer 1035. This is a great opportunity to meet and share stories with fellow graduate students.

Networking can be one of the most enjoyable and rewarding aspects of conference attendance. You never know whom you’ll meet and whom they’ll know! But networking can also be a difficult, fraught experience. The GSC Mentoring Program exists to help graduate students connect with senior figures in their fields for informal conversation during three major conferences held each year: the Medieval Academy Annual Meeting, ICMS Kalamazoo, and IMC Leeds. If you will be attending one of these conferences and haven’t participated in the past, I encourage you to sign up and expand your circle of contacts. If you’ve participated before, sign up again and meet someone new!

In this edition of the GSC Newsletter, you’ll find a recap of GSC activities at the MAA Annual Meeting, calls for newsletter content contributions, and a compilation of conference dates, CFPs, and fellowship opportunities.

Lastly, a sincere thanks to outgoing GSC Chair Danielle Griego and members Katherine Sedovic and Caitlin Hutchison for all of their hard work to advance the interests of graduate student medievalists and to ensure that our voices are heard within the Medieval Academy.

With best wishes,

Ted Chelis

An Invitation from the Editors

Over the next year, the GSC plans to continue expanding the variety of content offered in the newsletter. We hope to feature more narratives spotlighting the diverse experiences in which graduate students participate during their higher-ed journeys. If you have an interesting story to tell from which your peers could benefit (research, teaching, mentorship, travel, etc.), consider sharing a brief narrative with us to be considered for publication in an upcoming edition. Please send contributions and questions to newsletter editor Emerson Richards (emstrich@indiana.edu).

We are currently inviting submissions for three feature sections: Organization Spotlight; Vitae; and Pilgrimage Narratives. See below for details.

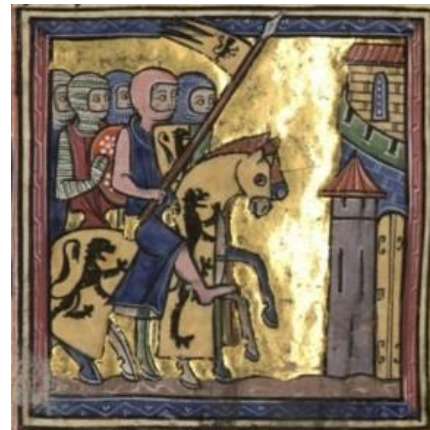

Ultimately, we hope to make our selection process egalitarian, which should result in a more diverse newsletter that is reflective of MAA graduate students in the U.S. and abroad. If you submit a narrative and are not immediately selected for inclusion, we will keep your article on file for a future issue. Of course, we will never publish anything without first contacting you and receiving your final approval.

Organization Spotlight: This section promotes professional and scholarly organizations that accept graduate student members and focus on medieval topics. We are particularly interested in underrepresented organizations as well as international organizations that our members might otherwise not be familiar with. We are looking for pieces, between 250 and 300 words in length, that describe the organization, explain its importance to the medievalist community, mention any publications or conferences it hosts, and indicate whether they are open to graduate student submissions. Please also include contact information for the organization, details about joining, membership fees, and a logo.

Vitae: Previously called The Conversion Narrative, the title of this section has been changed to reflect how our graduate careers are less like a conversion and more like a lifelong journey. Here, we aim to promote our colleagues and the interesting work being done by medievalist graduate students worldwide. If you think you've had an interesting path as a developing scholar, share it with us. Submit 250–300 words describing what sparked your interest in the Middle Ages, and why and how you chose to pursue it. Please include a professional photo of yourself and/or the subject of your research.

Pilgrimage Narratives: Medieval Studies takes us to interesting places and introduces us to interesting people. We are interested to know where you have been for research or conference travel. If you've had an experience, or have hot tips for others, submit a 250–300 word account of your travels with photos.

Deadline for submissions: July 31st, 2018.

GSC Digital Presence

The GSC's Facebook page is fast increasing in number of "Likes" and is approaching 1,500 followers! If you have not done so already, be sure to "like" us on Facebook. Additionally, we invite you to follow us and tweet at us on Twitter, @GSC_MAA, where we've reached almost 1,000 followers!

The GSC has decided to retire the medieval grad student listserv and will now relay all updates through its Facebook page, Twitter account, and newsletter. We encourage members of the MAA to contribute by posting links to relevant news content both in terms of professional development and research.

Would you like to get more out of our digital presence?

Please feel free to e-mail Caitlin Hutchison chutch@udel.edu or Courtney Krolikoski (courtney.krolikoski@mail.mcgill.ca) with your suggestions and/or comments.

GSC Mentoring Program

The GSC will continue to offer its Mentoring Program this year at ICMS Kalamazoo and IMC Leeds.

The goal of the mentoring program is to pair graduate students and faculty by discipline to discuss topics such as conference preparation, publication process, dissertation completion, and the job market (to name only a few). Both mentors and mentees have given positive feedback about the program and view it as an important aspect of professional development.

The deadline to participate in the mentoring program at IMC Leeds is 4 June 2018.

If you have any questions, please contact Ted Chelis (chelis@psu.edu) or Danielle Griego (dngg28@mail.missouri.edu), or e-mail the GSC at gsc@themedievalacademy.org
