Dear Speaker Pelosi, Republican Leader McCarthy, Majority Leader Schumer, Republican Leader McConnell:

At no other point in recent history has the need for immigration reform been greater than it is today. Simply put, the system is broken. Millions of workers, many of whom were indispensable to America's COVID-19 response, are living in legal jeopardy. Apprehensions at the southern border are at historic highs. Employers are also struggling to find workers to fill jobs in many industries.

Americans want commonsense reforms. They want the government to work and their tax dollars to have a return on investment. Given the current state of our politics, it may seem impossible to achieve bipartisan immigration policy solutions. Yet, we know that solutions are possible and, with your support, are attainable this year.

We have come together as faith and education leaders, the business community, and advocates from across the political spectrum to announce the Alliance for a New Immigration Consensus. This Alliance believes that Congress and the White House can come together on immigration reforms that address issues impacting communities across America, including the legal status of Dreamers, farm workers and other immigrants contributing to our communities, the security at our border, and the economic concerns regarding the availability and cost of the food on our tables.

This opportunity is confirmed in recent polling by The LIBRE Initiative which indicates that 93% of voters agree that immigration reforms are necessary and urgent. A strong majority of voters also want change to occur before the 2022 midterm elections and are willing to support specific policies to that end. More than 8 in 10 voters support solutions that strengthen border security; create a pathway to citizenship for Dreamers, who came to the United States as children; and ensure a legal, reliable workforce for America's farmers and ranchers.

Accordingly, we call on Congress to address the growing concerns from the American public and enact solutions this year that address the following:

- the uncertainty that dominates the everyday lives of so many undocumented immigrants seeking to contribute to our economy;
- the concern with the security vulnerabilities at our border and the need to strengthen the United States' ability to manage the border in a secure, orderly, and humane manner; and
- the workforce limitations in our agricultural sector that are currently contributing to supply chain disruption and raising cost concerns.

Modernizing our immigration system is a step toward alleviating many concerns that are weighing heavily on the minds of American citizens today. Americans are concerned about the ongoing economic recovery from COVID-19, persistent labor shortages and supply chain challenges, rising inflation, and border security. This Alliance is elevating those voices and ready to work with Congress on bipartisan solutions that can be passed today.

As job creators, communities of faith, and advocates who comprise the Alliance for a New Immigration Consensus, we call on you to act now.

Sincerely,
