AOBTA® COSP Code of Ethics

All COSP members (including faculty, administrators, and instructors) abide by both the AOBTA® Code of Ethics and the following COSP Code of Ethics:

- COSP members provide students with accurate information regarding local, state, and national legislation pertaining to the practice of the Asian Bodywork Therapy profession.
- COSP members present their Asian Bodywork Therapy training program accurately and honestly.
- COSP members educate their students about the requirements for AOBTA® membership.
- COSP members honor copyright laws – in both their teaching materials and in student assignments.
- COSP members provide a safe and respectful teaching and clinic environment.
- COSP members provide student clinic experiences designed to maximize the abilities of the students to assess, treat, and chart.
- COSP members ensure that their student clinics are appropriately supervised to ensure accuracy and safety of assessment and treatment and to ensure appropriate privacy according to HIPAA requirements.
- COSP members ensure that the teaching and clinic environment is free of prejudice, racism, sexism, ageism, homophobia, sexual harassment or any other type of discrimination or abuse.
