Your Professional Membership Institute

The IEP is the membership body for employability professionals. We support all those responsible for helping people to get into, back to, and progress in work. We believe that employability should be a recognised profession.

Who is eligible to be a Member?

People who work in employability, wherever they deliver including: specialist employability organisations, housing associations, local authorities, children's centres, FE colleges, universities, libraries, local community organisations, and specialist disability and health organisations.

Building our Profession – a collaborative approach

A thriving, energetic, creative frontline of trained, skilled and knowledgeable professionals will deliver the best service for individuals. We actively promote collaboration on best practice and the sharing of knowledge. Together, our members are working together to support each other and develop the sector's skills and expertise and we want you to join us too.

Working with Influencers

The IEP works closely with influential employability organisations on collaborative projects that include: the NVQ level 3 in Employment Related Services; the IEP's Induction Certificate for Employability staff; the Apprenticeship Levy and the development of an employability apprenticeship. We also work in partnership with policy makers such as Merlin to raise standards and build better supply chains in order to create a workforce delivering to the highest standards and outcomes.
