

CPW America Co. Announces Marc Huber as Incoming President

HOUSTON, TEXAS, July 1, 2020 – CPW America Co. (CPWA) announced that Dianne Burger, President, will step down from her position at the end of 2020, and Marc Huber has been appointed as her successor. Marc Huber joined the CPWA team on July 1, 2020 as Incoming President and will officially take the reins as President on Jan. 1, 2021.

Huber comes with 15 years of experience in the Oil & Gas sector and a long tenure with Shawcor, where he held multiple leadership roles. He plans to open new channels and opportunities for customers, and to cultivate future and ongoing relationships.

“I am very excited to take the helm of such a strong company that has differentiated itself over the last twenty years based on its proven quality and commitment to customers,” Huber said. “Even during this unique time period, CPWA continues to invest heavily in its production technology with its recent investment in Bellville Tube Co. I plan to grow market awareness of CPWA’s unique capabilities, both import and domestically and to deliver solutions to meet the needs of customers throughout the Americas.”

Burger said, “Marc Huber brings everything CPWA needs to continue to grow and build upon our philosophy of pursuing excellence, exercising flexibility and implementing cost-efficient solutions.”
