NASPD Conference Attendees,

Thank you again for the opportunity to speak to you in San Diego. Your organization could not have been more welcoming and supportive both of myself and VET's mission to assist the transition of military men and women into our communities. Your critical feedback on my talk and our organization is highly valuable to us, so please don't hesitate to leave a comment at www.veteranelite.org.

VET could not exist without the support of patriotic individuals and businesses that are willing to go above and beyond for our service members and veterans. Please consider supporting VET by donating through the website, contacting us on how to get involved with our corporate programming or setting up a corporate sponsorship, and/or sharing our information with your colleagues.

Remember, earn your trident everyday!

Sincerely,
