

Helping HR Professionals Meet the Challenges of an Ever Changing Profession.

We are the Alamance County Human Resources Association.

The Alamance County Human Resources Association, more commonly referred to as ACHRA, is an association comprised of Human Resource Professionals at all levels, Industrial and Labor Relations Managers, and College Instructors who teach HR-related courses. ACHRA provides a forum in which Human Resource Professionals can continue their professional development through continuing educational opportunities and discussion of recently adopted and pending legislation that will impact the profession.

Testimonials

"I have been a member of ACHRA since 1973. I have continued to be a member as the chapter has evolved and every meeting provides great learning opportunities. Our affiliation with SHRM has strengthened the programs that are being delivered and the study course for the SPHR exam helped me to finally realize my goal several years ago." – Mrs. Elizabeth Coble, SPHR – Corporate Manager of Employee Relations – Glen Raven, Inc.

"When starting a job in a new town, I have always joined the local HR Association. I can't think of a better way to become familiar with local issues, concerns, industries and community leaders. In addition to meeting that purpose, the Alamance County HR Association has also been a great resource for professional development. It provides opportunities to share ideas with my peers as well as providing extremely cost effective seminars and training to help keep me abreast of the constantly changing regulatory landscape affecting the HR profession. As an affiliate of SHRM, It also offers many chances to earn credits toward PHR and SPHR recertification." – Mr. John Andrews, SPHR – HR Manager – Engineered Controls International

"ACHRA is such a dynamic, diverse, well-informed organization. With all of the changes HR professionals face daily, it's great to know that there is a network of people that I can call on who will help me. This, along with the professional development opportunities, helps me feel more able to help the employees who look to me for support and answers." – Mrs. Lorri Allison – Director of HR – Alamance Community College
