Oley Forum Policy for Professionals and Members of Industry

Professionals and members of industry are allowed to view forum postings to learn more about the experiences patients go through. Should you choose to become a forum member, your profile should disclose your connections to industry. (If you are already a forum member, please update your profile as needed.)

All forum participants are expected to adhere to Inspire's forum guidelines which are posted at <http://www.inspire.com/about/guidelines/> As an Oley professional or member of industry, we ask that you please observe the following guidelines for your participation as well:

- Do not post on the forum or respond to members' postings. This includes not 'friending' members on the forum or sending messages to forum members (unless you are also a consumer/caregiver/family member; see below*).
- Flag postings you find inappropriate. Our partner, Inspire, will check into the posting. If you want to bring an issue to the Oley staff's attention, please call or email a link to the posting to an Oley staff member.
- Contact Oley if you have questions or concerns.
- Respect the privacy of members' postings.
- Do not market, sell, or distribute products or services via the forum.
- Do not recruit members to become a client or an employee.
- Do not recruit members to participate in research, projects, etc.
- Do not solicit money, products, or services.

*If you are a member of industry AND a consumer/caregiver/family member, you are welcome to post your personal experiences. You need to be open and honest in disclosing your professional allegiance in your profile AND in your postings. Please adhere to the guidelines above, and refrain from providing medical advice.
