Conference Papers For Sale; Benefits Endowment

For a number of years, PCA/ACA has facilitated the exchange of conference papers for those who wish to obtain copies of others’ papers and for the benefit of the PCA/ACA Endowment. We ask you to bring 25 copies of your paper to the Paper Table in the center of the book exhibit. Each paper will be sold for $1.00; all proceeds go to the Endowment. Last year, over $1,000 was raised.

The Paper Table, as it has come to be known, is often a fascinating source of information and a good way to find others who are dealing with the same issues as you but with different approaches. Moreover, the Paper Table is also regularly visited by publishers looking for manuscripts and by editors developing collections.

The Table will be open in the Acadia Room (3rd Floor) whenever the book exhibit is open, Wednesday (1:00 – 5:00), Thursday and Friday (8:30-4:30), and Saturday morning (8:30-12:00). If you would like to pick up unsold copies of your paper, please stop by before noon on Saturday to retrieve your manuscripts.

Exhibit Hours

Wednesday, April 8: 1:00 P.M. – 5:00 P.M.

Thursday, April 9: 8:30 AM – 5:00 PM

Friday, April 10: 8:30 AM – 5:00 PM

Saturday, April 11: 8:30 AM – 12:00 PM

(Please observe these hours; any changes will be posted at the registration desk and outside the exhibits hall.)

| THE NEW ORLEANS TEA PARTY (2008)
This documentary covers the rebuilding of post-Katrina civil society. This shoestring-budget film was produced, directed, and edited by Marline Otte, Associate Professor of History, Tulane University, New Orleans, and Laszlo Fulop, Assistant Professor in the Film Department at the University of New Orleans. The film was shot on HDV between December 2006 and October 2008.
The film does not simply chronicle individual tragedies and struggles specific to the realities of post-Katrina New Orleans; it aims to provide a comprehensive understanding of the numerous difficulties in rebuilding civil society--a sense of accountability, transparency, and solidarity across the divisions of class and race--after years of neglect and ongoing disaster.
The documentary follows the rebuilding process, takes stock of the loss that defines the "storm generation," and features interviews with "third responders," who dedicate themselves to rebuilding morale among the dispirited.
In short, while the documentary is shot predominantly within the city of New Orleans, it aims to capture the nation’s transformative struggle to literally and figuratively define the core of its civic culture--a struggle that in the eyes of many New Orleanians compares in significance to the eve of the American Revolution. |

| MY BIG BREAK
Filmed over a period of ten years, My Big Break follows five roommates (four actors and a director) as they try to make it in Hollywood. More than just an Entourage-like behind the scenes peek, the film captures, as it is happening, the effects of fame - seeking it, experiencing it, succumbing to it, and turning away from it – on all five. Tony Zierra’s controversial documentary puts an achingly real, and sometimes disturbing face on the actors and the industry that many of us study but rarely get to see from this perspective. Featuring Wes Bentley, Chad Lindberg, Brad Rowe, Greg Fawcett, and Tony Zierra. |

In an attempt to reach an audience of college age students to provide significant food for thought about the stereotypes and stigmas associated with gay, lesbian, and bisexual people, the presenter created a 45-minute film that utilizes television and film clips, music, and the results of a student questionnaire in order to appeal to that “hip” quality of youth culture. Her | film aims to persuade, without alienating, those who may not have ever been exposed to issues that are of import to the GLBTQ community or those who may have anti-GLBTQ perspectives. While this presentation is informed by queer theory and covers some sophisticated points about gender and sexuality including the representation and understanding of each within the framework of popular culture, it does so in an accessible way to give the audience a chance to join in this critical discourse.

CONFLICTING PRESCRIPTIONS: TALES OF INTERVENTION IN THE LOWER 9TH WARD
Directed by Stephen Svenson
Sponsored by: The Culture of Cities Center, Toronto, Canada, The University of Waterloo; Funding from Canadian Institutes of Health Research; Produced with assistance from McMaster University Communication Studies and Multimedia Department and Common Ground Collective.

Documentary Film Introduced by Stephen Svenson (Director)
Panel Discussion: Dr. Alan Blum, Culture of Cities Centre, University of Waterloo and CIHR Research Project, City Life and Well-Being: The Grey Zone in Health and Illness; Dr. Kevin Dowler, Communications Programme in the Division of Social Science; Professor Stephen Bailey, Representative of Common Ground Collective.

Hurricane Katrina evolved from disaster to catastrophe, a catastrophe with grave implications for the health and well-being of the City of New Orleans and its citizens. Katrina’s impact on the health of the city and its members is nowhere more apparent than the Lower Ninth Ward which was virtually wiped away. The Lower Ninth Ward’s position as the palimpsest of a disaster that became catastrophe has meant that various actors have ‘moved in’ with prescriptions on how to ‘rebuild’ the Lower Ninth Ward.

The first half of the documentary introduces the City and the Lower 9th Ward through the motif of tourism. Discourses around tourism and the tourist (the tourist as healer vs. defiler, tourism as rejuvenator vs. destroyer) as they surface in the mass media and in interviews with residents and visitors (tourists, activists, wanderers, pilgrims) to the lower Ninth Ward, reflect ethical tensions over the place of pleasure and its relation to health and death in the city. The devastation and the responses of 'dark tourists' speak not just to a fascination with death but the hopes and dreams of healing, rejuvenation, and reconciliation that underscore this fascination.

Voluntourism, mission tourism, as well as more conventional “disaster” tourism in post-Katrina New Orleans, all in some way exemplify the need for the actor to intervene or to ‘come to terms’ with a catastrophic breech not necessarily originating in the devastation of the City.

The second half of the documentary extends this theme to the concerns and focus of NGO’s, celebrities, local government, and religious organizations and their imaginings for the future health of the Lower Ninth. The documentary intervenes in the discourse of urban and personal health, problematizing the desires of locals, governments, NGO’s and celebrities, pointing to the contraindications present in the rebuilding of the Lower Ninth Ward and highlighting the ethical grey-zone that accompanies any project of re-creation.

DARIUS GOES WEST (2007)
Directed by Logan Smalley
Discussion Led by Timothy Campbell, Northeastern Ohio Universities College of Medicine

Fifteen year-old Darius Weems from Athens, Georgia, was born with Duchenne muscular dystrophy (DMD), the most common fatal genetic disorder to affect children worldwide. In 1999, he watched his beloved older brother, Mario, pass away from the same disease at age 19. Soon after, Darius lost use of the muscles in his legs and had to begin using a wheelchair. The documentary, Darius Goes West, follows Darius and his college-age friends in the summer of 2005 when the friends rented a wheel-chair accessible RV and took Darius to Los Angeles to convince MTV’s hit show “Pimp My Ride” to customize his wheelchair. They visited many places (including New Orleans) to raise awareness about DMD and celebrated The American With Disabilities Act along the way. The documentary won twenty-four awards in 2007, including the Audience Choice Award for Best Feature at the Jackson Hole Film Festival and the Grand Jury Award for Best Documentary at the Solstice Film Festival.

This year the PCA/ACA once again presents episode seven of season six of Buffy the Vampire Slayer, "Once More with Feeling". Both written and directed by Joss Whedon, "Once More with Feeling", which originally aired 1/06/01, has since become one of the show's most memorable episodes. In it, a demon named Sweet comes to the town of Sunnydale in search of Buffy's sister Dawn, but his arrival also unaccountably causes everyone to break into song and dance. We hope the showing turns into a sing-a-long.

George Rodrigue
Carondelet (4th Floor)
Thursday, April 9, 2:30 P.M. – 4:00 P.M.
George Rodrigue (b. 1944) was raised in New Iberia, Louisiana, the heart of Cajun country. For more than forty years, his work has remained rooted in the familiar milieu of home.
During the mid-1960s following six semesters at the University of Southwest Louisiana (now the University of Louisiana at Lafayette) Rodrigue attended the Art Center College of Design in Los Angeles, where the graduate school’s curriculum provided him a nuts-and-bolts foundation in drawing and painting. Outside of art school, L.A. was full of Pop and Abstract influences, and it was an exciting time for a young artist in America. However, much like today critical success depended on one’s New York visibility. Nevertheless, Rodrigue returned to Louisiana. He would use its symbols not only to capture the essence of his personal world, but also to express his spiritual and cultural ideas as they pertained to Louisiana, to the South, and to America. Rodrigue decided that he would not be a Louisiana artist in New York City; instead he would return home with his new knowledge and give meaning to a new phrase: Cajun Artist.

Using the oak tree as his main subject in hundreds of paintings in the early 1970s, Rodrigue eventually expanded his subjects to include the Cajun people and traditions, as well as his interpretations of myths such as Jolie Blonde and Evangeline. He painted the Cajuns in white with little or no shadow, a light shining from within these transplanted people, giving them hope. They floated almost like ghosts and appeared locked in the landscape, often framed by the trunk of a tree or the outline of a bush. The roads and rivers became one dark path leading to the small light underneath the oaks.

THE BLUE DOG
It was one of these myths, the loup-garou, which inspired Rodrigue’s most famous series, the Blue Dog. Painted for a book of Cajun ghost stories (Bayou, Inkwell, 1984), this werewolf-type dog was an already familiar legend for Rodrigue, who heard the story often as a boy. With no image for the loup-garou, the artist searched his files for a suitable shape. He found it in photos of his studio dog Tiffany who had died several years before. Rodrigue used her stance and manipulated her shape to meet his needs for the painting. Under a blue night sky he painted the image a pale grey-blue and gave it red eyes. He liked what he saw and added this image to his pictorial list of favorite Cajun legends, painting it in cemetery and bayou scenes intermittently over the next five or six years.

Over time Rodrigue changed the dog's eyes to yellow, creating a friendlier image, and soon realized that the Blue Dog could take him anywhere on the canvas --- even out of Cajun country. He explored his earlier Pop and Abstract interests in a more obvious way, breaking his canvas into strong shapes just as he always had with the oak trees and Cajuns, with the addition of bold blocks of color and a new signature-type shape in the mix. Gradually the dog became bluer and the paintings more abstract, yet the canvases remained rooted in Rodrigue’s Louisiana heritage and traditional training. Whereas with the Cajuns Rodrigue commented on the past, the Blue Dog allowed him to comment on today.

In 2000, Rodrigue broke from representation when he exploded into the eerily prophetic works Hurricanes. His art swirled into an abstract series of Louisiana storms, a hint of an oak tree or a pair of yellow eyes occasionally caught amidst the mass of color and brushstroke.

In 2005, Rodrigue premiered Bodies, reacting to the intense explosion of the Hurricanes with a sudden return to classical nudes, cemeteries, and oak trees. Using the computer, he re-masters the original painting with color and repetitive imagery, using archival inkjet technology and in some cases mounting the finished five-foot prints on steel. As with each series over the past forty years, Rodrigue developed a new mode of expression in a contemporary way, using Louisiana and its timeless symbols as a basis.

Museums continue to acknowledge Rodrigue's accomplishments, particularly following the release of the monograph The Art of George Rodrigue (Harry N. Abrams, New York, 2003). The Dixon Gallery and Gardens Museum in Memphis, Tennessee hosted a 40-year Rodrigue retrospective in July 2007, which then traveled to the New Orleans Museum of Art in the spring of 2008, where the museum received 60,000 visitors, an attendance record for a contemporary show or living artist. In 2009 the University of Louisiana’s College of the Arts in Lafayette honors Rodrigue during the spring semester with exhibitions at the University Art Museum and the Acadiana Center for the Arts, as well as bestowing upon him an honorary doctorate.
In 1989 Rodrigue opened his own gallery on Royal Street in New Orleans' French Quarter, and in 1991 he followed with a gallery in Carmel, California. After Hurricane Katrina in September 2005, he opened in Aspen, Colorado, and in the Lafayette Oil Center, ironically just down the street from his very first gallery more than thirty years ago. Rodrigue and his wife Wendy live in New Orleans’ historic Faubourg Marigny. (www.georgerodrigue.com)

Music: Presentation of Greg Shaw Award to Nick Spitzer
Chair: Robin Roberts, Louisiana State University
Balcony N (4th Floor)
Friday, April 10, 2:30 P.M. – 4:00 P.M.
Folklorist and radio host Nick Spitzer will discuss his work as producer of the public radio series American Routes and his involvement in cultural recovery efforts in southern Louisiana in the aftermath of Hurricane Katrina. He will be introduced and interviewed by Popular Music and Society Editorial Board member and Louisiana State University professor Robin Roberts. Formal presentation of the Award will occur at the conclusion of the panel. The Greg Shaw Award for Outstanding Contributions to Popular Culture Preservation is given by the journal Popular Music and Society in memory of Greg Shaw, a pioneering record collector, fanzine publisher, music journalist, and record producer. Nick Spitzer was selected to receive the Award by a selection committee consisting of Irwin Chusid, Erik Lindgren, Alec Palao, Bill Schurk, and Suzy Shaw.

Nick Spitzer: Nick Spitzer is creator and host of American Routes, a weekly two-hour radio program devoted to vernacular music and culture, which is distributed by American Public Media and heard on many National Public Radio stations. Spitzer is Professor of Communication and American Studies at Tulane University, where he began as a Mellon Fellow in 2004 and Adjunct Research Professor in Anthropology and Urban Studies at the University of New Orleans. He was Louisiana State Folklorist from 1978 to 1985 and served as Founding Director of the Louisiana Folklife Program. He helped create the Folklife Pavilion at the 1984 World’s Fair, where he curated The Creole State: An Exhibition of Louisiana Folklife and was Senior Folklife Specialist at the Smithsonian Institution from 1985 to 1990 and Artistic Director of the Folk Masters concerts and broadcasts from Carnegie Hall and Wolf Trap from 1990 to 1997. (Folk Masters is available on CD from Smithsonian Folkways Recordings.) Spitzer was a resident scholar at the School of American Research in Santa Fe, New Mexico, and a Fellow of the American Folklore Society. He has received the Benjamin Botkin Award in Public Folklore and an ASCAP-Deems Taylor Award for American Routes. He was named Louisiana Humanist of the Year in 2006 for cultural recovery efforts following Hurricane Katrina. In 2007 Spitzer received a Guggenheim Fellowship for research on traditional creativity in Louisiana Creole communities. His publications include Mississippi Delta Ethnographic Overview (National Park Service, 1979), Louisiana Folklore: A Guide to the State (Louisiana Folklife Program, 1985), Public Folklore (Smithsonian Institution Press, 1992), Blues for New Orleans: Mardi Gras and America’s Creole Soul (University of Pennsylvania Press, 2006), and “Rebuilding the ‘Land of Dreams’ with Music” (in Rebuilding Urban Places After Disaster: Lessons from Hurricane Katrina, ed. Birch and Wachter, University of Pennsylvania Press, 2006). He directed the film Zydeco: Creole Music and Culture in Rural Louisiana (1986) and has produced or annotated two dozen documentary recordings. He has worked as a radio host at WXPN-FM (Philadelphia), WMMR-FM (Philadelphia), and KOKE-FM (Austin).

Chair: Jeff Charnley, Michigan State University
Special Guest: Gordon “Nick” Mueller, Ph.D., President and CEO of National the WW II Museum

Presentation: “Reenacting Rosie”
Kimberly Guise, Assistant Curator of The National WW II Museum
The National World War II Museum chronicles the American experience in the "war that changed the world." Designated by Congress as our country's official WWII Museum, it includes historical artifacts, photographs, documents, interactive displays, and compelling personal accounts. USA Today ranks this New Orleans attraction as the "Best Place to Learn U.S. Military History."

Dedicated in 2000 as the D-Day Museum, this national treasure features exhibits highlighting our nation's road to war, life on the Home Front, and the amphibious landings at Normandy and in the Pacific. The Special Exhibit Gallery features changing exhibitions on all aspects of the great war.

Within walking distance of the Marriott, the National World War II Museum will educate and enlighten Americans of all ages on this turbulent but triumphant period in American history. Plan to spend some time there--it is definitely worth the trip.

Saturday, April 11, 10:00 A.M. – 11:30 A.M.

Romance Sessions 1: Teaching the Romance Novel: Special panel on romance fiction pedagogy led by Eric Selinger and Sarah Frantz.
Regent (4th Floor)
Thursday, April 9, 8:30 P.M. – 10:00 P.M.
We discuss past experiences, future plans, successes, disasters, and recommendations for bringing popular romance fiction to the classroom. Bring syllabi, assignments, recommendations, hopes, fears, and dreams.

Session 2: Let’s Talk Romance: Romance Fiction Open Forum
Regent (4th Floor)
Friday, April 10, 4:30 P.M. – 6:00 P.M.
Chairs: Eric Selinger and Darcy Martin
Conference attendees are invited to an Open Forum on Romance Fiction. We have in attendance a fascinating and eclectic group of romance writers writing in every genre of romance fiction, publishers of romance, romance scholars, and others interested in the genre participating in the panels. This Special Session affords attendees the opportunity to participate in an informal discussion of a variety of topics of interest to the attendees. Please join us. We plan to go out for dinner following the session.

Sesame Street
40 Years and Still Counting!
Carondelet (3rd Floor)
Thursday, April 9, 12:30 – 2:00
Presenters:
Carol-Lynn Parente, Executive Producer, Sesame Street
Jennifer A. Perry, Assistant Vice President & Editorial Director, Worldwide Publishing, Sesame Workshop
Betsy Loredo, Executive Editor, Worldwide Publishing, Sesame Workshop
Moderator:
Richard Graham, University of Nebraska-Lincoln
Sesame Street is a widely recognized pioneer of using popular culture themes in children’s educational television programs. Indeed, the show itself is part of the fabric of American popular culture. Since its inception in 1969, it has received infinite accolades but has also not escaped criticism or controversy. It is the longest-running shows in television history, with over 4100 episodes and is seen in more than 150 countries. Its characters are recognized the world over, demonstrating the significance of Sesame Street as a media ‘master-text’.

This presentation will trace the evolution of Sesame Street using video and still images- from the pitch of the concept to PBS onward, a discussion of Sesame Street as an ambassador of American culture and goodwill, and a rare chance for Q&A with the show’s current Executive Producer. Join us for a presentation with industry professionals and bring your questions and comments!

The Vampire in Literature, Culture, & Film
Bissonet (3rd Floor)
Wednesday, April 8, 8:30 P.M. – 10:00 P.M.

Welcome to Our Nightmare!
Mary Findley, Stephen King and The Vampire in Literature, Culture and Film
Patrick McAleer, Stephen King and The Vampire in Literature, Culture and Film
Philip Simpson, Horror
Louis Palmer, Gothic

FIDO
Horror United presents its third annual “Welcome to Our Nightmare” film event! The Horror, Gothic, Vampire and Stephen King Areas invite all morbidly curious fans of horror, sci-fi and the like to join us for a screening of the wildly outrageous Canadian zombie movie Fido. This charming, heart-warming tale is sure to make you laugh, cry, scream, and even groan.

All attendees will be eligible for door prizes and a made-for-this-event raffle of horrific proportions. Come one, come all to this nightmarish event . . . if you dare.

2234 Science Fiction & Fantasy XII: The Called, A Creative Writing Reading
Author: Warren Rochelle, University of Mary Washington

Harvest of Changelings tells the story of Ben Tyson, his half-fairy son Malachi, and the three changeling children who complete Malachi’s tetrad—fire, water, and earth, to Malachi’s air. In their quest to reach a gate to Faerie by Samhain, they are pursued by black witches and the evil Fomorii. While they finally reach the gate and cross over, they pay a high price.

In The Called, Rochelle’s novel-in-progress, twenty-one years have passed since the events in Harvest. The bonds of the tetrad have faded, the United States is adjusting badly to the magic’s return, and the “true human” movement is gaining political power. Ben, Malachi, and others have become involved in the magical rights movement, leading to Malachi’s kidnapping by minions of the Fomorii. In this sequel to Harvest, Rochelle explores the themes of the Other, of Good versus Evil, and of identity, with the added complications of adulthood haunted by an unresolved past in a society torn apart by bigotry and hatred.

2236 Dance Culture Plenary Session: Free Speech versus Copyright Autonomy: How the "Fair Use" Doctrine Can Free Copyrighted Materials for Scholarship and Teaching. Open to all.
Chair and Panelist: Libby Smigel, Dance Heritage Coalition
Panelists: Katherine Lawson, George Washington University and Allen Ellis, Northern Kentucky University
Sponsored by Dance Culture, Libraries/Museums, Documentary, Fan Culture, and Academic Areas.

This panel presentation (with discussion and Q&A) will explain how the flexible and powerful "Fair Use" doctrine can ensure that faculty, scholars, documentary filmmakers, education program leaders, online video practitioners, librarians, and others who need to use copyrighted materials for their significant cultural, educational, and civic missions can make use of copyrighted materials legally. The "Fair Use" doctrine will be explained, especially in light of recent court decisions that give "fair use" greater clarity and applicability. Handouts will include copies of the Documentary Filmmakers' Statement of Best Practices in Fair Use, a list of common misunderstandings about copyright, and other resources.

3231B Stephen King Roundtable Discussion: Oh the Horror! Stephen King in the Classroom

Moderator: Patrick McAleer, Indiana University of Pennsylvania
Discussants: Mary Findley, Vermont Technical College
Carl Sederholm, Brigham Young University
Michael Perry, Arizona State University

With the immense popularity of Stephen King growing among his reading and viewing audience, it is clear that the inclusion of his works in the college classroom is also growing. Of course, the integration of Stephen King’s varied writings and films in academia is met with both resistance and acceptance. This roundtable seeks to open a dialogue about the joys, obstacles and methodologies of integrating and teaching King in the college classroom. Why are some reluctant to teach King? How do you get beyond (and around) the Harold Blooms of the world, and how do you integrate the horror master into English 101? Come ready to share your ideas and participate in this exhilarating discussion.

Journal of American Culture
CALL FOR PAPERS:

General Author Guidelines
The Journal of American Culture, edited at Virginia Wesleyan College, showcases articles on the Americas, especially those addressing broad and substantive cultural issues. It includes research on entertainment media and the popular arts that characterizes and illuminates life in the Americas in the twenty-first century. The journal also provides a steady and wide-ranging forum for aesthetic, historical, sociological, and ethical inquiries into the diverse cultures of the Americas, representing various times, places, and orientations, with a view toward creating a useful resource for all, with articles written in accessible language and reflecting interdisciplinary approaches and comparative analyses that will be of interest to the American Culture Association's diverse membership.

MANUSCRIPT SUBMISSION Authors should submit papers in current MLA style with a works cited page and a minimum of endnotes. Electronic submissions, sent in Microsoft Word via e-mail attachments to jac@vwc.edu, are preferred. However, we will also accept two copies of the paper for the peer-review process, as well as a self-addressed, stamped envelope if you want them returned. Upon acceptance of your work, you will be required to submit the material electronically via e-mail attachment or on disk in PC/IBM format. Authors of manuscripts accepted for publication must subscribe to JAC for at least one year at the time of acceptance. Subscription includes membership in the American Culture Association.

Manuscripts should be addressed to
Kathy Merlock Jackson, Editor
The Journal of American Culture
Virginia Wesleyan College
1584 Wesleyan Drive
Norfolk, VA 23502-5599

Book review inquiries should be sent to Ray Browne, Popular Culture Library, Bowling Green State University, Bowling Green, OH 43403.
The Journal of Popular Culture
CALL FOR PAPERS

The Journal of Popular Culture is seeking high quality articles to review for publication. Topics may include any aspect of U.S. or international popular culture.

Submitted manuscripts must be no shorter than ten pages, and no longer than twenty-five pages (typed, double-spaced, 12 pt. Times New Roman font). Research and documentation must adhere to The MLA Handbook for Writers of Research Papers and The MLA Style Manual, which require a Works Cited list, with parenthetical author/page references in the text. Punctuation, Capitalization, hyphenation, and other matters of style, must also following The MLA Handbook and The MLA Style Manual, supplemented as necessary by The Chicago Manual of Style.

Submissions should include the following—

1) Three paper copies of the article (without the author’s name appearing anywhere on the three copies).
2) A separate title page containing the author’s complete contact information.
3) A computer disk containing a file of the article in MS Word format.
4) S.A.S.E. for the possible return of submission materials.

Address submission to—
