

Dear APSA Members,

APSA Updates:

APSA now has a new website layout that can be easily viewed from a phone, tablet, or desktop. Go to <http://www.physicianscientists.org/> now to check it out!

Applications are now open for the next generation of APSA leaders!

If you are passionate about science and medicine, APSA needs you! APSA is the only organization dedicated to advocating for physician-scientist trainees of all levels. APSA's trainee members and leaders make the work we do possible. Applications for positions, including vice-chairs, are open for all of APSA's standing committees. Help APSA craft policy initiatives, plan the next Annual Meeting, develop new partnerships with specialty societies, and much more. It is a great opportunity to gain leadership experience and network with fellow trainees and senior physician-scientists across the country. Position descriptions are available on the APSA Leadership page and you can apply on the application page.

Join us on Medstro!

Medstro is a forum and social media website for medical professionals. APSA's page hosts exciting discussions relevant to current and future physician scientists regarding everything from training pathways to personal life. Ongoing discussions include "Money Matters: Buying a house" and "APSA Undergraduates: What is a Physician Scientist?"
