RETP Membership is designed to assist recognised providers to reach potential stakeholders, and for those seeking to expand their knowledge or skills in project management to identify an appropriate provider. As an autonomous professional association, Project Management South Africa recognises the offerings of a range of education and training providers that focus on developing project managers and those in related disciplines.

- To align the various elements of the career path for project management and its related disciplines to the offerings of education and training providers.
- To provide context for the stakeholders in education and training service provision and consumption.
- To provide a framework against which the companies and institutions offering education and training, and their products, can be assessed in order to promote high standards.
- To provide a framework against which the specific offerings of companies and institutions offering education and training can be assessed in order to promote credibility.

CURRICULUM RECOGNITION

Curriculum recognition is associated with specific courses offered by recognised education and training providers and where relevant aligning these to the requirements for professional registration and other aspects of the Framework for a Career Path in Project Management. This allows Recognised providers to associate their offerings with industry requirements and obtain a PMSA endorsement of a specific course.

Please note, only those with Organisational Recognition may apply for Curriculum Recognition.

Evaluation

Specific course offerings will be evaluated by nominated subject matter experts according to criteria associated with education and training standards; prevailing standards and methodologies relevant to project management; as well as alignment to the criteria for registered designations and the PMSA Framework for a Career Path in Project Management

Mark of Endorsement

On approval of specific courses, the RETP is permitted to indicate on certificates, course material and relevant promotional material that the particular course is endorsed by PMSA. After initial approval, the RETP is, however, expected to comply with the terms and conditions of the endorsement, which includes, amongst others, detailed alignment to the PMSA Framework for a Career Path in Project Management, and advance notification of any fundamental changes in an endorsed course.
