Laura Bradbury Green Receives Society of Fire Protection Engineers 2008 D. Peter Lund Award

Charlotte, NC – October 13, 2008 – At its Annual Awards Luncheon, the Society of Fire Protection Engineers (SFPE) presented the 2008 D. Peter Lund Award to Laura Bradbury Green. She is the Fire & Gas System Technical Authority with BP Exploration (Alaska).

The award is made by the SFPE Board of Directors in acknowledgment of contributions to the advancement of professional recognition of the fire protection engineer. It is named in honor of D. Peter Lund, the first executive director of SFPE.

MORE
“Bradbury Green was honored for promoting the practice of fire protection engineering in the State of Alaska,” said SFPE Engineering Program Manager Chris Jelenewicz. “Because of her leadership, the Alaska State Board of Registration for Architects, Engineers and Land Surveyors voted to start the process to recognize fire protection engineering as an engineering discipline in Alaska.”

About Society of Fire Protection Engineers
Organized in 1950, the Society of Fire Protection Engineers is the professional society for engineers involved in the field of fire protection engineering. The purposes of SFPE are to advance the science and practice of fire protection engineering, maintain a high ethical standing among its members and foster fire protection engineering education. SFPE’s worldwide members include engineers in private practice, in industry and in local, regional and national government. Chapters are located in Canada, China, France, Italy, Japan, Korea, New Zealand, Saudi Arabia, Singapore, Spain, Sweden and the United States.

More information about SFPE can be found at www.sfpe.org.