The guide was developed to assist individuals who provide Recovery Support Services (RSS) in identifying statewide services for the criminal justice population. The guide assists peer recovery specialists and coaches fulfill their role as a “resource broker” by linking those in recovery to positive recovery services throughout the state of Texas.

Vision for Texas Peer Recovery Coach: Criminal Justice Perspective

To develop qualified Peer Recovery Coaches to work within the correctional and community substance abuse treatment setting serves as the center of our focus.

The specialist will work along side licensed and certified substance abuse professionals to serve as mentors encouraging and training offenders to begin the process of becoming a Peer Recovery Coach while incarcerated by demonstrating and instilling the value that recovery is possible for every individual, family and community.

Reciprocal respect between the licensed, certified professionals and the Coach and the recognition of the Coach's recovery is a vital credential that they bring to the field will be encouraged and established. Coaches will be trained in the delivery of evidenced based principles, and on-going skill development. Training shall adhere to the standards and requirements established by the Texas Certification Board of Addiction Professionals Board (TCBAP) for certifying Peer Recovery Coaches.

Coaches will have the support, access, credibility, competency, respect and valued role within the correctional treatment environment and community treatment service delivery system to positively impact the lives of individuals experiencing addiction challenges. Utilizing the Texas Department of Criminal Justice Partner's Program; the Coaches will begin the process as an approved volunteer or Partner (see Volunteer Service Plan), with an overall goal of becoming mentors to offenders during their incarceration and throughout their recovery.

Recovery Oriented Systems of Care (ROSC)

Recovery Oriented Systems of Care (ROSC) emphasize the importance of community collaborations and partnership, including governmental agencies at all levels, to ensure the continuum of care available for other chronic care diseases (such as diabetes or heart disease) for persons affected by substance use disorders. ROSC services enhance each individual's personal strengths and improve their social functions while allowing them to build recovery self-management skills by providing continuing support during the recovery process.

THE TDCJ “PARTNER’S PROGRAM”

The Texas Department of Criminal Justice (TDCJ) is committed to rehabilitation and recognizes the value that ex-offenders with recovery experience could have on helping others in the recovery community. TDCJ will utilize the “Partners Program” as a way to bring certified or designated Recovery Coaches back into the prison system to assist and mentor other TDCJ offenders.

The Partners Program allows ex-offenders, sponsored by and accompanied by an approved volunteer, to serve as substance abuse volunteers six months after release from incarceration. This program allows ex-offenders to share recovery, sobriety, and hope with those still in prison.

A Partners Program Volunteer is an offender who has been released for a period of six months or more, and has one year of sobriety, six months of which may be acquired during their incarceration. In order to gain maximum benefit of peer recovery through the Partners Program, accompanied partners may serve on units at which they were previously incarcerated. The requirements for volunteering under the Partner’s Program are:

- Must have been released for 6 months
- PO or CSO (if applicable) must be aware of your participation
- Must be accompanied by an “approved volunteer” or TDCJ staff member
- Must have completed all Peer Recovery Support Specialist Training
- Must have a Peer Recovery Support Specialist Certification or Designation from the Texas Certification Board of Addiction Professionals.
- Must apply to and be approved by TDCJ – Volunteer Services

To apply to become a TDCJ volunteer, interested persons should contact TDCJ Volunteer Services Program staff at (936)-437-3026, or visit the website at:

http://www.tdcj.state.tx.us/divisions/rpd/rpd\_volunteer.html

WINNERS CIRCLE CONTACT LIST

The Winners Circle was established as a peer support and peer-driven network of men and women returning to their communities after completing substance abuse rehabilitation in an in-prison therapeutic community program and community-based therapeutic transitional center. The men and women completing the therapeutic community treatment modality discovered that they are their brothers' keeper and established the Winners Circle to help other releases in their reintegration and recovery. Winners Circle Chapters are also seeking new members. Contact a Winners Circle group in your community for recovery and reintegration assistance and to become a member.
