

LIFE's commitment remains strong

During this time of social distancing and isolation, you can't come to us, so The LIFE Institute has come to you by moving online. For almost 30 years LIFE has offered the largest selection of daytime learning experiences to Torontonians aged 50+ who have a passion for lifelong learning. Although we are unable to provide in-person courses and events at present, our commitment to meet the learning and social engagement needs of our members remains strong, especially now.

As a member of The LIFE Institute, you can continue to enjoy a wide variety of stimulating lectures and engage in topical discussions on important issues of the day – all online. We aim to resume in-person activities as soon as it is safe to do so. In the meanwhile, we encourage you to stay safe, stay well and stay connected to The LIFE Institute.
