For over 50 years, TICUA has promoted educational opportunity and freedom of choice in higher education. Our 37 member colleges and universities provide students with rigorous preparation for their chosen careers in an environment that best fits their personal, educational and financial needs.

Our member institutions educate nearly 65,000 students, almost half of whom come from other states and countries throughout the world. Students attending our institutions benefit from millions of dollars in financial aid based on academic performance and financial need—the majority of which is provided by our institutions. TICUA member campuses remain committed to providing diverse and high quality education to our students. As a result, students attending TICUA institutions complete their educational goals in a timely manner. Our institutions enroll 24% of the students in the state but award 33% of the degrees.

As we move forward, TICUA will continue to support student choice by working with our member colleges and universities, the state, and neighboring communities to serve students and their families. Our shared commitment to student opportunity will positively impact the future economic and social well-being of all Tennesseans.

Sincerely,

Claude O. Pressnell, Jr.

The Tennessee Independent Colleges and Universities Association (TICUA) celebrates over 50 years of service to the state, community and its membership. Four founding members have grown to 37 private colleges and universities.

TICUA membership includes 2 two-year colleges, 32 four-year colleges and universities, and 3 professional colleges. In addition to our 37 main campuses, TICUA campuses provide 62 off-site and satellite degree programs throughout the state.

The students who attend TICUA member institutions benefit from personal and academic enrichment opportunities through a variety of educational programs, an intimate campus environment, a small class experience, and a reputation for academic excellence.
TICUA continues to promote educational opportunity and freedom of choice in higher education.

Our member colleges and universities educate nearly 65,000 students, which is 24% of all students participating in higher education in Tennessee. TICUA colleges and universities attract nearly 29,000 students from other states and countries throughout the world.
A strong higher education system is one of the driving forces behind economic development and job growth in a state. TICUA member colleges and universities continue to remain flexible in order to accommodate the educational, economic and demographic changes taking place throughout the state. As the need of education and training beyond high school increases, TICUA member institutions stand ready to enroll an additional 6,500 students over the next five years.

As higher education competes for limited state resources, TICUA member institutions remain a viable option to students at little or no cost to the state.
TICUA member colleges and universities spend more than $3 billion each year in fulfilling their missions that prepare future leaders in business, healthcare, teaching, and service. This translates into an economic impact of over $7.5 billion.

Our colleges and universities awarded over 14,500 degrees last year—graduating more than 3,000 business and management leaders, 2,200 educators, and 1,700 health care professionals.

Our colleges and universities also serve as one of the state’s largest employers. Our members employ nearly 36,000 faculty and staff. Our members generate close to 18,000 jobs across the state where private colleges and universities reside.
The education students receive at our member colleges and universities prepare them for a lifetime of service.

Our colleges and universities educate students outside the walls of the classroom—extending far beyond the communities where our institutions reside.

Tennessee communities directly benefit from students enrolled at our colleges and universities through local voluntary efforts.

Students attending our member institutions volunteer for local reading programs for children, assisting the elderly, and engaging in community service for those less fortunate.
State and local communities also benefit from an array of social and cultural events supported by our colleges and universities. From academic lectures to athletic competition, private colleges and universities enhance the community and recreational options available to Tennesseans.

One of our colleges' and universities' strengths lies in the healthcare and teacher education professions. In the past decade, our members have awarded over 20,000 degrees in these fields. Students who graduate from our colleges and universities are embedded in our communities helping to educate and serve the citizens of the state.
Unique, Intimate, and Influential

Our 37 private colleges and universities are preparing researchers, educators, and healthcare professionals to meet the future economic and social needs of the state. Students who attend our colleges and universities are among some of the best and brightest in the state.

Sources: Data are based on fall enrollment figures from the following sources: IPEDS Fall Enrollment Survey, TICUA.
PARTICIPATION

Our member colleges and universities educate nearly 65,000 students—an all time high for our membership. As enrollment trends shift to a more diverse set of students, our colleges and universities stand ready to respond. In fact, our four-year private colleges and universities presently serve a more diverse group of students than the public four-year colleges and universities in the state.

As the demand for higher education continues to grow, our campuses remain committed to education and training. Our 37 private colleges and universities have the capacity to enroll an additional 6,500 students over the next five years.
AFFORDABILITY

TICUA member institutions remain affordable and accessible to middle- and low-income Tennessee students and their families. The median family income of Tennessee students attending our four-year colleges and universities is $7,400 less than those attending our state four-year public colleges or universities. In addition, tuition and fees at our colleges and universities remain 28% below the national average for private colleges and universities.

College affordability continues to play a critical role in determining who participates in college. Nationally, low-income high school students with high levels of skills do not enroll in higher education at the same rate as their middle or upper income peers.

To stall this trend, our member institutions are working hard to support students through various financial aid packages. Currently, about 85% of first-time full-time students attending our member campuses receive some form of financial aid—the majority of which is provided by our institutions.

Institutional aid accounts for 73% of all grant aid given to students attending private colleges and universities, followed by 15% from the state, and 12% from the federal government.

In addition, about 1 in 4 college students attending TICUA member institutions receive the Federal Pell Grant, this grant is primarily targeted to low-income students. At the same time, 34% of full-time Tennessee college students attending a private college or university receive the Pell grant.

Completion

Students enrolling in TICUA member institutions are more likely to graduate in a timely manner than those who choose to attend state public colleges and universities. In addition, minority students are more likely to complete their degrees in less time at TICUA member institutions.

Tennessee’s Independent Colleges Have Higher 4 - 5- and 6 - year Graduation Rates for Their Students

Source: U.S. Department of Education, National Center for Education Statistics, National Postsecondary Student Aid Study (NPSAS) 2003-04. Statistics are for students who are Tennessee residents.
Last year, TICUA members awarded over 14,500 degrees ranging from associate to doctoral. Our colleges and universities award more masters, first professional, and doctoral degrees than any other higher education system in the state. These degrees account for 33% of all degrees awarded in the state—our institutions enroll 24% of students but award 33% of degrees.
TICUA believes that students deserve an opportunity to choose a college or university that best fits their personal, educational, and financial needs.

Students attending TICUA member colleges and universities have the opportunity to receive generous financial assistance to attend a private college based on financial need and academic performance. Our student participation in state student aid programs amounts to more than $50 million a year. Without these programs many students would not be able to attend the college or university that best fits their needs.

THE TENNESSEE STUDENT ASSISTANCE AWARD

The Tennessee Student Assistance Award (TSAA) is given to qualified, low-income high school graduates and adult learners in the state. For every dollar the state spends on higher education, two cents is given to students attending TICUA member institutions through the TSAA grant.

This funding reaches over 3,500 students each year at an average award amount of $4,300.

The TSAA grant provides thousands of low-income students the opportunity to attend a private college in the state.

I consider this grant an investment in my future as well as my children, since my future career will provide a better quality of life for us. I can’t thank you enough for the investment you’ve made in my education.

- TSAA Recipient
Thank you! Without this grant assistance I would have had to work more hours outside of class or take out more loans. I appreciate all you have done for me and my family.

- TSAA Recipient
Three years ago, the state enacted the Tennessee Education Lottery Scholarship (TELS) program, based on academic performance, that provides $3,800 for students to attend a public or private college in the state. Currently, over 8,700 students attending private colleges and universities in the state receive this scholarship. TICUA is confident that as this program is fully implemented it will allow more students to be successful at the postsecondary institution of their choice. Even in the early years, thousands of students have realized the dream of attending the college that best fits their needs.

“I would just like to take the time to say thank you for the funding I received through the Tennessee Lottery Scholarship Program! Because of your generous contribution, I am able to pursue my future career goals more effectively.”

-student recipient of TELS
TICUA will continue to work with member colleges and universities, the state, and neighboring communities to best serve students and their families and make the dream of attending a private college or university a reality.

“I can’t thank you enough for the financial support I have received through Tennessee’s lottery scholarship program. This scholarship has made a significant impact on my ability to attend one of Tennessee's private colleges.”

-student recipient of TELS
Pursuing shared goals with mutual trust and respect to further Tennessee private higher education is at the heart of the Collegium's goals. The companies listed below have joined the Collegium to support independent higher education in Tennessee.

At Bethel College, our goal is to provide “Academic Excellence... Personally.” Bethel College is a small college that has room for you. A friendly, caring school, filled with people dedicated to the success of each student, Bethel offers all the advantages of the best small schools—over 160 years of educational experience, individual attention, a comfortable living environment, an outstanding faculty, and a convenient and attractive campus. Bethel also offers many of the advantages of the big schools—popular majors, quality athletics, and access to virtually limitless academic resources.

With a low 14:1 student-to-faculty ratio, Bethel is able to help develop and nurture individual students and remain dedicated to a quality education. As a result, Bethel College students are achieving “Academic Excellence...Personally.”

Founded in 1849 by Methodist leaders, Hiwassee College is Tennessee's only private, residential, liberal arts college with a special focus on the first two years of higher education. Located in the foothills of the Great Smoky Mountains, its beautiful pastoral campus provides the perfect setting for a close-knit living and learning community, and its mission of over 150 years has been to provide a Christian educational environment that nurtures students' mental, physical, social, and spiritual potentials. With "dedicated to great beginnings" as its motto, Hiwassee faculty and staff are committed to encouraging students to strive for both personal and academic excellence by offering an extraordinary degree of personalized attention both in and out of the classroom. In addition to a first-rate honors program and an increasingly popular nursing program in association with Lincoln Memorial University, Hiwassee offers forty-four additional university parallel programs of study leading to the A.A. or A.S. degree and three career/vocational programs of study leading to the A.A.S. degree.

King is a comprehensive Christian college serving the Southeast and beyond. Modeled as a small university, King actively cultivates an environment of academic excellence where scholarship, stewardship and faith are integrated. The result is a dynamic community with a broad view of the world, sharpened professional acumen, and commitment to serving others.

King offers more than 80 majors, minors, concentrations and pre-professional programs. Adult-oriented degree programs include the Bachelor and Master of Business Administration, RN to BSN program, and the Master of Science in Nursing. An average of more than 80 percent of our graduates seeking employment are employed in their major field within six months of graduation. Twenty-eight percent go on to a top graduate or professional school, with the significant majority accepted to their first-choice school. King College ensures that students graduate with as little debt as possible by awarding more than $15 million in scholarships, grants, loans and student campus employment—a commitment that has helped U.S. News & World Report rank King as a Best College for seventeen consecutive years.

The University of the South, or Sewanee, as it is popularly known, offers a challenging and stimulating program in the liberal arts. The emphasis at Sewanee is on the mastery of fundamental disciplines. Degree requirements in literature and the arts, mathematics and natural sciences, history and social sciences, and philosophy and religion are rigorous and extensive. While honoring its Episcopal heritage, the undergraduate College of Arts and Sciences is nonsectarian in its teaching and recruiting of students and faculty. The campus' unified design of Gothic architecture lends the Sewanee community a feel of old England. The University's domain of 10,000 acres sits on the western face of the Cumberland Plateau. This location affords students an amazing variety of recreational opportunities and outdoor pursuits.

For nearly 150 years, Tennessee Wesleyan College has provided its students with an exceptional education and the opportunity to grow into themselves as they build the foundation of their futures. The college offers 32 majors in the traditional liberal arts as well as a number of professional and pre-professional programs and prides itself on providing an academic environment where students are fully engaged in their education and are intellectually challenged. A student-to-faculty ratio of 12-1 allows faculty to get to know each student as an individual, and students and professors develop strong bonds that extend outside the classroom and beyond graduation. Tennessee Wesleyan encourages involvement in a wide variety of student activities, clubs and organizations, both on- and off-campus, that provide opportunities for students to explore new interests and develop as leaders. In addition to its main campus in Athens, Tennessee, Wesleyan maintains a site in Knoxville, which provides classroom facilities for evening degree programs in business administration and the college's Fort Sanders' nursing department.

Founded in 1794, Tusculum College is Tennessee’s oldest college. Yet, its outlook and spirit are visionary. One of three colleges in the United States to adopt a focused calendar, Tusculum asks its students and faculty to concentrate on one course at a time. Through a vital, service-oriented curriculum, the college seeks to contribute to a revitalization of American democracy by graduating men and women with the skills, knowledge, and practical wisdom to participate effectively as citizens of their hometowns, their nation, and the world. To this end, Tusculum recast the liberal arts with the name Civic Arts. A competency program documents a student’s abilities in nine areas including communication and critical thinking.

Committed to the task of providing education in the liberal arts tradition, Union University builds on its framework of Christian ideals to educate students of quality and character. The ultimate goal of the curriculum is the full development of each individual student so that he or she might take on responsible and creative roles in society. Union, a Baptist institution, endeavors to give an articulate and vigorous witness to the Christian faith as the unifying principle around which one can relate learning to life. Union’s campus facilitates the learning process and unifies the student body by bringing all members of the campus community together in several closely-linked academic buildings.

Edsouth funds low-cost student and parent loans for FFELP lenders throughout the Southeast and across the country. Our industry partners include Edamerica, First Tennessee Bank and Bank of America.

But we’re also a homegrown company with small town values. We are fiscally conservative and financially sound. A nonprofit corporation, Edsouth invests surplus funds to benefit borrowers with discounted origination fees and rebates for timely payments. Our Edloan program enhances the recruitment and retention of nurses and teachers right here in Tennessee.

Edsouth transforms lives by making college affordable to more and more students and families. We’re putting access in action everyday.

An institution of higher learning, and higher risk.

Now more than ever, colleges and universities need to understand how they can protect their campuses—financially, administratively, and programmatically. So effective risk management planning—and the right team to make it work—are essential in preparing for events that might consume your reputation and resources. Marsh provides colleges and universities with proven expertise in business continuity planning and crisis management. All so that institutions of higher learning can stay on higher ground.
