The Healthcare Waste Institute Announces New Chair and Vice Chair

ARLINGTON, VA. (October 6, 2017) – The Health Waste Institute (HWI) proudly announces that Selin Hoboy, Vice President of Legislative and Regulatory Affairs at Stericycle, Inc. has been elected as the new Chair while Rudy Vingris, the Healthcare Business Development manager for Waste Management will remain as Vice Chair. Hoboy will begin her one-year term on January 1, 2018.

Hoboy is responsible for managing legislative and regulatory affairs. She has worked in the environmental health and safety industry for over twenty years, and at Stericycle for over seventeen years. Selin has supported the waste industry as an active member of the Healthcare Waste Institute.

“It is an honor and privilege to be selected as the next Chair for the Healthcare Waste Institute. During a time of much change and opportunity for the industry, I look forward to serving the members in the upcoming year,” said Hoboy.

Vingris has been involved extensively in hazardous waste management for over twenty-five years. At Waste Management, Vingris manages the Pharmaceutical & Hazardous Waste Management Program that provides services to healthcare customers that manages and disposes of all pharmaceutical and chemical wastes.

“The National Waste & Recycling Association appreciates all the support from outgoing chair Andrea Arredondo and looks forward to continuing the good work with Selin Hoboy,” said Anne Germain, Director of Waste and Recycling Technology at NWRA.

The Healthcare Institute is an industry group within the National Waste & Recycling Association. Their mission is to facilitate responsible healthcare waste management.
