

PRESS RELEASE

Searching for Waste Industry Products and Services Just Got Smarter with NWRA's Waste Industry Marketplace – Where NWRA Members buy from NWRA Members

(WASHINGTON, DC) — JUNE 22, 2016—The National Waste & Recycling Association (NWRA) announced today the debut of an enhanced Waste Industry Marketplace connecting suppliers in the industry with service providers. Since 2007, NWRA's Waste Industry Marketplace has been the easiest way for NWRA members and other waste and recycling industry professionals to find the products and services they need.

Several new features and improvements have just been added to the Waste Industry Marketplace. Visitors can now access the Marketplace from any device – desktops, tablets or mobile phones. New headings and categories make it easier to find the products and services you are searching for, and search results are delivered faster than ever. Advertisers can provide more details about their company and products, including photos, key company news and information and social media links. Waste Industry Marketplace is provided in partnership with Multiview, the leading digital publisher for America's leading trade associations.

The NWRA Waste Industry Marketplace lets customers work smarter, not harder. With these new enhanced features and more intelligent search technology, there's no better way to connect industry professionals with the suppliers they need. Visit wasterecycling.org and learn more about NWRA's exclusive Member Savings Program and the Marketplace by clicking the Member tab, or visit the directory at <http://wasteindustrymarketplace.com/>.

The Waste Industry Marketplace is one of the many ways NWRA is helping our industry be Safer, Smarter and Stronger.
