Profile

Rashida MacMurray-Abdullah has more than 16 years of professional services and consulting experience advising public and private sector clients on matters related to corporate investigations, fraud, corruption, and dispute resolution. Rashida also has deep technical experience in the areas of construction disputes, forensic accounting, compliance, and anti-fraud consulting. Clients rely on Rashida's ability to combine technical acumen with innovative thinking in the areas of forensic technology to help efficiently assess allegations of misconduct, uncover evidence, and calculate economic damages.

Rashida leverages her unique blend of legal and business skills to help corporate law departments to align their legal operations and corporate strategy to enhance their role as strategic business and risk advisors. She is also involved in the firm's National Chief Legal Officer (CLO) Next Generation Academy and CFO Transition Labs™. She was a member of the inaugural team tasked with developing the learning curriculum for corporate legal executives to be recognized as the pre-eminent business advisor to their business units. She is a frequent presenter on topics related to financial acumen and accounting principles for attorneys. She facilitates one-day strategy sessions with senior executives transitioning into new c-suite roles and currently leads Deloitte's NextGen CLO Peer to Peer Forum in the Greater Washington area.

Prior to joining Deloitte FAS, Rashida was an attorney with a national law firm providing construction litigation and dispute services to Fortune 500 companies and public entities. Rashida is admitted to practice law in five jurisdictions, including New York, and the U.S. Patent & Trademark Office as a registered patent attorney. She was recently recognized as one of Deloitte's Rising Stars at the 47th Harlem YMCA bai Awards Gala. In 2013, she was named among the National Bar Association's "Nation's Best Advocates: 40 Lawyers Under 40." She received her J.D. from Rutgers University and her B.S in Architecture and M. Engineering (Civil Engineering) from the University of Virginia.
