<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Personalization (What): Instruction tailored to the preferences and interests of various learners, as well as instruction that is paced to a student’s unique needs</td>
<td>Teachers engage students for their feedback on crafting the learning activities for instruction based on their interest and curiosity for which they take ownership.</td>
<td>“Learning Creation”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Differentiation (How): Instruction tailored to meet the learning needs, preferences and goals of individual students.</td>
<td>A teacher responds to a student’s unique learning needs through the learning process, the educational content, or the specific learning vehicle or product, based on a student’s interest, learning profile or readiness.</td>
<td>“Many Paths”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Individualization (When): Instruction calibrated to meet the unique pace of various students</td>
<td>The teacher maintains the same learning goals for all students but students can progress through the curriculum at different speeds based on their own particular needs.</td>
<td>“Paced Learning”</td>

The Big Challenge

How do we better enable: “Connecting and Securing Effective Learning Ecosystems”?

Increased interoperability without the inclusion of privacy requirements = increased RISK. Both data sharing and privacy parameters must be identified and communicated.

How should we be 'measured'?
Foreword by Larry Fruth PhD, CEO/Exec Director, A4L Community

"The ultimate measure of a [person] is not where [he/she] stands in moments of comfort and convenience, but where [he/she] stands at times of challenge and controversy."

That quote should make us think: it is now officially a year into this crisis and how would/could we be measured? As we come out of our holes in the ground (like the American furry rodent we tell the coming of spring by), we begin to think what have we learned during this pandemic and what can we do differently for learners and practitioners NEXT year?

I, for one, am passionate about delivering REAL examples of sustainable personalized, individualized, differentiated learning – define those how you want! I think the explosion of virtual learning and maturation of new tools could make these often used, but not truly implemented, concepts a reality. But that is discussion for another LONGER day.....
