

Instructions to Authors:

Play Therapy™ Magazine

Purpose

The purpose of Play Therapy™, a quarterly professional publication produced by the Association for Play Therapy (APT), is to publish and disseminate clinical and professional articles, critical reviews, and other news and information to member mental health professionals and the general public.

Critical reviews of play therapy books and audio/video programs are included not to market a particular product but to help play therapists select those materials that increase their play therapy knowledge or practice.

Style

Only articles crafted in APA style are considered. Ensure that your article complies with the format described in the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association, 6th Edition. Carefully review and edit your article before submission. It is further reviewed and perhaps edited for clarity, stylistic, or spatial purposes without altering intent by the Clinical Editor. The decision of the latter is final.

References

An appropriate number of references should be included to support material presented in the article. Authors are encouraged to consider quality over quantity. The majority of references should be dated within the past seven years.

Copyright

By submitting an article, you agree that, if accepted, the copyright for it is immediately assigned to the publisher, APT, which thereafter enjoys the exclusive rights to reproduce and distribute it and strictly prohibit its reproduction, storage, or transmission in any form or by any means without its expressed permission in writing.

In some instances, one or more reviewers may be assigned as an author mentor.
4. Legal/Ethics: Except as cited in the content, APT assumes that your article/review is an original product created solely by you. If your article/review has been published elsewhere, include written permission for APT to publish it. You are solely and wholly responsible for any and all ethical and legal violations in this regard!

5. Process: The Publisher will record and acknowledge receipt of your manuscript, and assign it for review.
