Message from the CPAE Chair*by Ann Brooks*

The CPAE Steering Committee is very excited about our upcoming co-conference. It's been a busy year for CPAE, responding to a call from our membership at the 2017 co-conference to reorganize in order to enable a more diverse array of presentation topics from our members. And indeed, we have a very broad range of topics scheduled for this year's co-conference.

Steve Schmidt will be taking over as CPAE Chair for next year, bringing with him broad knowledge of not only CPAE, but also of AAACE as its president from 2013–14. We also thank outgoing executive committee members Petra Robinson and Haijun Kang. Petra put a great deal of work into establishing formal relationships between CPAE and other academic adult education organizations around the world. Haijun Kang set up our Facebook page and redesigned and maintained our CPAE webpage. Both will be stepping down, so we will be electing two new executive committee at-large members after the traditional CPAE Reception at the co-conference business meeting on Thursday. This is a great time to meet your colleagues around the world and have a say in the direction CPAE will take.

We are living in an exciting time for our field. Higher education is changing and although some doors seem to be closing, new doors are opening for academic adult educators. Many more of us are working internationally and connecting with our adult education colleagues around the world. We are pioneering new ways to use technology, as well as addressing some of the negatives technology has brought, in working with adult learners. We need to be increasingly engaged in policy initiatives and research. New ideas are influencing our field, not to replace the old, but to expand the lenses through which we see and engage in our world.

This is a time for conversation and dialogue, both about our work in higher education and the work of adult educators in our many diverse contexts. The CPAE Executive Committee looks forward to joining with you in these generative engagements.

2018 CPAE CO-CONFERENCE

October 4–5, 2018, Myrtle Beach, SC

At last year's CPAE Co-Conference in Memphis, we asked for your input on what future CPAE Co-Conferences should look like. Based on that feedback, we are pleased to announce some changes to this year's CPAE co-conference.

In the past, you had opportunities to submit your work for presentation at one of our CPAE SIG sessions. This year, however, we will be replacing SIG sessions with three CPAE conference strands (Research, Theory, and Emerging Issues) integrated with concurrent AAACE sessions and open to all AAACE participants. The CPAE conference strands will give you the opportunity to share your work with a broader audience of AAACE members. We are also excited to be offering professional development workshops on Thursday and Friday. These 90-minute sessions will be practical and applicable in nature and are open only to CPAE registrants.

CPAE KEYNOTE SPEAKER AND WORKSHOP

On Thursday, October 4 from 2:15–3:45pm all CPAE conference registrants are welcome to join us for our CPAE Welcome and Workshop. Our keynote speaker and workshop facilitator will be Dr. Jeff D. Borden. The following is an overview of his topic focus.

Connections are the heart and soul of education. How a person connects an idea to a context matters. How someone connects a theory to an application is crucial. Connecting socially has as much impact on learning as cognition. How we connect experts and novices with various communication channels can make or break the experience. Yet most articles about higher education today proclaim that there is more disconnectedness than anything else. Everything is being scrutinized and everyone is under fire. So how can we do it? How can we facilitate connection more intentionally and help learners with outcomes from learning to employment to life?

Dr. Jeff D. Borden will unpack what connectedness could (or even should) look like today. From an omnichannel world where knowledge and data are available on demand contrasting against a highly inefficient, centuries-old model where students go to class to learn from a lone teacher, there are things we can all do to facilitate better connection. From connection builders to connection busters, Dr. Borden will look at interconnectedness through the lens of Education 3.0 (Neuroscience, Learning Research, and Ed Tech) to give audience members something to try tomorrow, and a list of things to consider next week, next month, and next year, as we all try to better connect learners to learning.

CALL FOR FALL CPAE NEWSLETTER ITEMS

We will be publishing our Fall 2018 CPAE newsletter in November and are collecting information for inclusion.

Please note the deadline for information to be included in the Fall 2018 Newsletter is Friday, October 26. We hope to include the following types of information:

- Short items of interest to CPAE members about issues in adult education
- Announcements
- Conference call for proposals or conference dates (especially for conferences that occur between now and May 2019)
- Journals
- Papers or chapters published in the last 6 months (no book reviews or conference proceedings/presentations)
- Recognition of deceased colleagues
- Recognition of newly hired colleagues
- Promotions, retirements
- Awards
- Announcements about AE programs (e.g., new, reorganizations, updates), open positions

If you have published a chapter or an article in the field of adult education, send the complete reference using APA 6th edition formatting. For all journal articles, please include the doi number. If you are unsure how to format your reference(s), review past CPAE newsletters at our website: <https://www.aaace.org/page/CPAENewsletter> or visit <http://owl.english.purdue.edu/owl/resource/560/01/>

Please send your contributions for the Fall 2018 newsletter to Leann Kaiser (leann.kaiser@colostate.edu).

CALL FOR CPAE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE NOMINATIONS

It is time to identify colleagues to serve on the CPAE Executive Committee to be elected at this year's CPAE Conference, held in conjunction with the AAACE Conference in Myrtle Beach, SC on October 2-5, 2018. The CPAE Conference will begin the morning of Thursday, October 4, with CPAE sessions continuing on Friday, October 5. The business meeting will start at 6:30 pm on Thursday, October 4 and we will be electing new Executive Committee members at that time.

Please carefully consider nominating a colleague or yourself for one of the open CPAE leadership opportunities before Tuesday, September 18, 2018. Executive Committee roles are excellent opportunities to serve the profession and provide leadership at the national level. We are in a position of great change and momentum leading to initiatives that will better serve all members of the CPAE and the field.

The positions available are listed below. The CPAE bylaws with more detailed descriptions are available at the CPAE website: <http://www.aaace.org/page/CPAEAbout>

Open Positions on the CPAE Executive Committee

Two Members-at-Large: This year's two newly elected members-at-large will serve a 2-year term from October 2018 through October 2020. In all, there are four members-at-large on the executive committee, a chair, a chair-elect (or past chair), and a secretary-treasurer.

Nominees will be contacted and asked to prepare a brief paragraph on why they want to serve on the CPAE Executive Committee. We will then forward nominee names and their informational paragraphs to the CPAE member list the week prior to the conference for review before voting at the CPAE business meeting.

Please submit your nominations and any questions to Leann Kaiser at leann.kaiser@colostate.edu before the deadline of September 18, 2018.

Please note additional nominations may be accepted from the floor during our business meeting and those nominees will have the opportunity to share a brief overview of why they want to serve on the EC prior to voting.
