August 1991

Dear Colleagues,

We are pleased to announce the 40th Annual Conference of the American Association for Adult and Continuing Education taking place outside the U.S. in Montréal, Canada, for the first time. The conference promises to be a gateway to unique experiences in learning and professional development.

Montréal is a cosmopolitan city where the past, present and future blend to form a mosaic of cultures and people meeting the challenges of a new learning society. The center of French culture in North America, it is a city where you will experience European flavor and charm without ever leaving the continent.

We are looking forward to meeting you in October to share this unique experience in adult and continuing education.

Sincerely,

Yves Sanssonci
Conference Chair

Lifelong Learning: An Odyssey to the Future

As the end of the 20th century approaches, continuing education has become a dominant aspect of education. Learning is now a lifelong experience for not only the individual, but the entire society. As we prepare to enter the 21st century, it is time for in-depth reflection on the status of education in North America.

What role will schools play in the 21st century? How will adult education fit in? How important will degrees be in the educational community? How will practical knowledge be recognized?

The conference will explore these issues and others in a variety of ways. The keynote address and general sessions scheduled each day answer questions and ask more about the future, literacy, science and technology, and the role of the community. Over 250 concurrent sessions and luncheon workshops cover 23 special interest areas in adult education. Exhibits and exhibitor workshops highlight products and services that can be used to address practical issues confronting adult educators; and luncheons and socials offer networking opportunities that are unparalleled by any other professional development activity.

As the century draws to a close, the educational community is facing numerous imminent challenges. With these issues at stake, we propose that you climb aboard for a tantalizing and stimulating odyssey, worthy of the challenges you choose to accept.
KEYNOTE ADDRESS
Lifelong Learning: An Odyssey to the Future
Tuesday, October 15
Lise Bissonnette
Publisher, Le Devoir
PERMANENCE OR ETERNITY,
ADULTS AND THEIR EDUCATION
Twenty years following the generalization of lifelong education, it is time to reflect on the effects of this revolution on the educational system: on the instructional paths taken by young adults, on the organization of higher education, on the evaluation criteria of education in the workplace and on the foundations of particular programs that have proliferated. Has continuing education become a life sentence for the whole of the community?

Lise Bissonnette is the publisher of Le Devoir, one of Montréal’s most influential daily newspapers. She has been a prominent journalist since 1974, when she became parliamentary correspondent for Le Devoir in both Québec and Ottawa, and subsequently became writer and editor in 1982. For several years, she published a weekly column on Québec affairs in The Globe and Mail, a national newspaper.

GENERAL SESSIONS

Adult Education Administration and Policies
Friday, October 18
Léa Cousineau
Chair, Executive Committee, City of Montréal
Originally a teacher, Léa Cousineau is the first woman to chair the Executive Committee of the City of Montréal. She has been a political attaché, responsible for the status of women in the Québec government, and a member of the adult education policy committee at the Institut canadien d’éducation des adultes for and from 1983 to 1986, she chaired the Board Directors. In November 1990, Mrs. Cousineau was reelected municipal counsellor.

Focus and Role of Adult Education in the Year 2000
Wednesday, October 16
Norman E. Henchey
Professor, Department of Administration & Policy Studies
Faculty of Education, McGill University
LEARNING CHALLENGES FOR ADULTS IN THE 21st CENTURY

Adult learners in the next century will find themselves in a new kind of world, one that is already in the making. They will need to cope with major challenges, among them the importance of knowledge in society, the need to develop new systems of myth and meaning, the pressure of powerful media, the rapid rate of change, growing ecological constraints, tensions between cultural diversity and social coherence, and global competition. Norman Henchey will explore these challenges.

Dr. Norman E. Henchey is a renowned expert in future studies and future education at McGill University in Montréal. He has authored many books, monographs, chapters and articles on various aspects of education and policies. Dr. Henchey has been a consultant for the Human Rights Curriculum of the Canadian Human Rights Foundation.

Strategies and Implementation
Thursday, October 17
Harold D. Stolovitch
Professor, Faculty of Education
Université de Montréal
THE GLORIOUS LEARNING REVOLUTION
Ever since the sabre-toothed curriculum, mankind has been in pursuit of the perfect vehicle for attaining learning success. Surely, as we enter the new millennium, we must be on the verge of getting it right.

Harold Stolovitch presents a somewhat humorous, somewhat nostalgic review of a variety of major contributions science and technology have made to adult learning—and what results. It also explores a host of emerging technologies that alluringly beckon to us on our odyssey to the future of adult and continuing education. Participants will come away with a list of “revolutionary” adult learning methods of the past fifty years and their impact. They will also leave with a set of criteria for gauging when the Glorious Instructional Revolution has finally been won.

Dr. Harold D. Stolovitch has been a teacher, trainer, researcher and consultant for over thirty years and has authored more than one hundred books, reports, chapters and articles on various aspects of instructional and performance technology. Dr. Stolovitch is a professor at the Université de Montréal, and a visiting scholar and senior research associate at the University of Southern California.
Literacy
Thursday, October 17
Serge Wagner
Professor, Faculty of Education
Université du Québec à Montréal

ILLITERACY AND ETHNOLINGUISTIC MINORITIES: REFLECTION ON THE SITUATION IN CANADA

Most industrialized countries are confronted with a high level of illiteracy among their minority groups. Consequently, the language and culture of education are at stake and have a direct impact on the linguistic and demographic development of the country. Canada is no exception to the rule.

Serge Wagner, a leader in the Canadian literacy movement, will speak on illiteracy and ethno-linguistic minorities, and reflect on the situation in Canada. Dr. Wagner is a professor at the University du Québec à Montréal, and has contributed to the establishment of several French-language literacy groups throughout Quebec and Ontario.

TEACHER’S DAY
Friday, October 18
(Unity Luncheon)

THE NEW DEMANDS OF LIFELONG EDUCATION

Society is changing...and so is education... What are the new demands in terms of lifelong education? How can these be fulfilled? Four panelists from four different interest groups will share their viewpoint. The panelists represent unions, business, community service, and international interests. Contributors will present their unique perspective and expectations of lifelong education in their particular area. The audience will be invited to engage in lively discussion.

Moderator: Jules Desrosiers, Ministère de l'Éducation du Québec.

MONTRÉAL AT A GLANCE

Location
The city of Montréal is located 187 feet above sea level on the island of Montréal, the largest of a group of islands at the convergence of the St. Lawrence and Ottawa rivers.

History
Montréal was first discovered by Europeans when Jacques Cartier arrived in 1535. The first permanent settlement was founded by Paul de Chomedey, Sieur de Maisonneuve, in 1642, thus making Montréal one of the oldest cities in America. Its past may be witnessed in a number of historic buildings, particular in the Old Montréal area.

Size
Montréal is the largest French-speaking city outside of France. It is the largest of 28 municipalities within the Montréal Urban Community. One and three-quarter million people live on the island of Montréal, with slightly under three million in the total metropolitan area.

Languages
Six million people live in Québec, five million of which speak French. However, for almost a million people living on the island of Montréal, their mother tongue is not French. Today, 35 different languages are spoken in the city, and Montréalers have ancestral links to 41 countries. English is spoken currently, particularly in the West End, and English is the mother tongue of 18% of the population. Italian, Greek and Chinese are also spoken here.

Transportation
The island of Montréal is a major transportation hub with a comprehensive network of highways, railroads, airlines and waterways. It is served by two international airports, that is the Dorval and Mirabel airports. The city itself has an extensive bus and subway system, with underground pedestrian walkways connecting most of the downtown commercial centers.

Climate
Montréal experiences a wide range of climatic conditions, with temperatures dropping as low as -27 °F (33°C) in mid-February and rising as high as 97°F (36°C) in mid-July. In mid-October, the temperature varies from 47°F (8.7°C) to 50°F (10°C).

Currency
At the time of printing, the U.S. dollar is worth approximately 1.15 Canadian dollars. U.S. dollars can be exchanged in all major banks during banking hours, and at many offices easily accessible by metro.

Subway
You can use the subway to visit Montréal or to come to the conference. The Palais des Congrès is situated at the Place d'Armes Station.

Shuttle Service
An airport shuttle service runs between Dorval Airport and the conference hotels. The price is approximately $7 US each way. Also, AAACE is providing shuttle service between the Convention Center and the Queen Elizabeth during conference hours.
PRECONFERENCE WORKSHOPS

Commission of Professors
Queen Elizabeth Hotel
Sunday, Oct. 13th, 7:00 p.m.
Monday, Oct. 14th, 9:00 a.m. to 9:00 p.m.
Tuesday, Oct. 15th, 9:00 a.m. to noon

The Commission of Professors will host its annual meeting immediately preceding the AAACE conference. The conference will open with a general session organized around mutual concerns of the CPAE and the Canadian Association for the Study of Adult Education (CASAE). Features include a presentation by Francisco Vio Grassi, President of the International Council, general sessions, business meetings, self reflection and critical reflection processes, task force meetings, and social functions.

For more information, call Phyllis Cunningham at (815) 753-1448 or Jim Fisher at (414) 229-5090

Commission on Continuing Professional Education
Professionals' Ways of Knowing and the Implications for CPE
Meridien Hotel
Sunday, Oct. 13th, 7:00 p.m. to 9 p.m.
Monday, Oct. 14th, 8:00 a.m. to 5:15 p.m.; reception: 5:30 to 7:30 p.m.
Tuesday, Oct. 15th, 7:45 a.m. to 12:15 p.m.

Professionals’ Ways of Knowing and the Implications for Continuing Professional Education is the theme of this year’s preconference. The varied program will include plenary sessions featuring internationally known speakers, informal round table discussions among all conference participants, and three simultaneous tracks during which presenters of more than thirty accepted papers will encourage participants to engage in a consideration of ways to link theory, research and practice. Continental breakfasts and a reception will provide additional opportunities to consider how continuing professional educators and practitioners of the many professions they serve know, think, and learn. Deborah Klevans, unit chair.

For more information, call Tom Pierson at (708) 869-3954.

Cooperative Extension
An Odyssey to Cooperative Extension’s Future
Queen Elizabeth Hotel
Monday, Oct. 14th, 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.
Tuesday, Oct. 15th, 8:00 a.m. to noon

Advance study circles will identify and name the focus of this year’s session, An Odyssey to Cooperative Extension’s Future. The preconference will open with a panel of leaders from both the U.S. and Canada, and topics covered will be the academic and practitioners’ perspectives on the theme. A workshop format will engage participants in lively discussion.

For more information, call Marilyn Grantham at (612) 625-4252.

Conference Presenting Skills Workshop
Queen Elizabeth Hotel
Tuesday, Oct. 15th, 9:00 a.m. to noon

Panel discussions, lectures, and small group discussion are all types of presentations that require special skills of the presenter. In this session we will explore some presentation skills and how they can be able to 1) effectively plan and present to achieve desired results, 2) determine which technique best fits the situation; 3) improve the format, organization, and handling of audio visuals; and 4) involve the audience and maintain interest. Faculty for the session include Paulette T. Beatty, Texas A & M University; Don F. Seaman, Texas A & M University; Linda A. Smith, University of Texas Health Science Center; and Fredric A Weiss, San Antonio College.

For more information, call Paulette Beatty at (409) 845-5460.

International Adult Education
Queen Elizabeth Hotel
Monday, Oct. 14th, 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.; dinner: 7:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m.
Tuesday, Oct. 15th, 9:00 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.

In the International Adult Education Workshop, prominent adult educators from around the globe will discuss and compare philosophies, objectives, perspectives and international relationships. The International preconference will have special significance this year as the AAACE moves out of the boundaries of the U.S. and into Canada for its annual conference.

For more information, call Richard Henstrom at (801) 378-4149.

National Adult Education Staff Development Consortium
Queen Elizabeth Hotel
Tuesday, Oct. 15th, 8:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. (includes luncheon)

Rapid developments in adult literacy and basic skills education are happening without a clear consensus on philosophy or approach. This workshop will review important new activities in staff development followed by a structured discussion about the emerging profession. Session includes working lunch.

For more information, call William Sperling at (206) 587-3880.
EXHIBITS '91

Once again, AAACE will hold its Annual Exposition in conjunction with the annual conference. The Odyssey to the Future Exposition will be the first chance for Canadian and American exhibitors to meet. Exhibitors will be on hand to demonstrate the newest products and services to meet your daily needs. Examine products including audio-visual, computer hardware, computer software, curriculum aides, GED materials, membership services, professional development opportunities, publications, registration materials, testing and assessment services and much much more!

The Odyssey to the Future Exposition is your opportunity to learn from the experts, do some price comparisons in a relaxed and convenient atmosphere, and learn who has the latest techniques available for your use!

Dear Colleagues,

We are pleased to announce the 40th Annual Conference of the American Association for Adult and Continuing Education taking place outside the U.S. in Montréal, Canada, for the first time. The conference promises to be a gateway to unique experiences in learning and professional development.

Montréal is a cosmopolitan city where the past, present and future blend to form a mosaic of cultures and people meeting the challenges of a new learning society. The center of French culture in North America, it is a city where you will experience European flavor and charm without ever leaving the continent.

We are looking forward to meeting you in October to share this unique experience in adult and continuing education.

Sincerely,

Yves Sanssouci
Conference Chair

Lifelong Learning: An Odyssey to the Future

As the end of the 20th century approaches, continuing education has become a dominant aspect of education. Learning is now a lifelong experience for not only the individual, but the entire society. As we prepare to enter the 21st century, it is time for in-depth reflection on the status of education in North America.

What role will schools play in the 21st century? How will adult education fit in? How important will degrees be in the educational community? How will practical knowledge be recognized?

The conference will explore these issues and others in a variety of ways. The keynote address and general sessions scheduled each day answer questions and ask more about the future, literacy, science and technology, and the role of the community. Over 250 concurrent sessions and luncheon workshops cover 23 special interest areas in adult education. Exhibits and exhibitor workshops highlight products and services that can be used to address practical issues confronting adult educators; and luncheons and socials offer networking opportunities that are unparalleled by any other professional development activity.

As the century draws to a close, the educational community is facing numerous imminent challenges. With these issues at stake, we propose that you climb aboard for a tantalizing and stimulating odyssey, worthy of the challenges you choose to accept.

Lifelong Learning: An Odyssey to the Future

Lise Bissonnette
Publisher, Le Devoir
PERMANENCE OR ETERNITY, ADULTS AND THEIR EDUCATION
Twenty years following the generalization of lifelong education, it is time to reflect on the effects of this revolution on the educational system: on the instructional paths taken by young adults, on the organization of higher education, on the evaluation criteria of education in the workplace and on the foundations of particular programs that have proliferated. Has continuing education become a life sentence for the whole of the community?

Lise Bissonnette is the publisher of Le Devoir, one of Montréal’s most influential daily newspapers. She has been a prominent journalist since 1974, when she became parliamentary correspondent for Le Devoir in both Québec and Ottawa, and subsequently became writer and editor in 1982. For several years, she published a weekly column on Québec affairs in The Globe and Mail, a national newspaper.

Adult learners in the next century will find themselves in a new kind of world, one that is already in the making. They will need to cope with major challenges, among them the importance of knowledge in society, the need to develop new systems of myth and meaning, the pressure of powerful media, the rapid rate of change, growing ecological constraints, tensions between cultural diversity and social coherence, and global competition. Norman Henchey will explore these challenges.

Dr. Norman E. Henchey is a renowned expert in future studies and future education at McGill University in Montréal. He has authored many books, monographs, chapters and articles on various aspects of education and policies. Dr. Henchey has been a consultant for the Human Rights Curriculum of the Canadian Human Rights Foundation.

Professor, Faculty of Education
Université de Montréal
THE GLORIOUS LEARNING REVOLUTION
Ever since the sabre-toothed curriculum, mankind has been in pursuit of the perfect vehicle for attaining learning success. Surely, as we enter the new millennium, we must be on the verge of getting it right.

Harold Stolovitch presents a somewhat humorous, somewhat nostalgic review of a variety of major contributions science and technology have made to adult learning—and what results. It also explores a host of emerging technologies that alluringly beckon to us on our odyssey to the future of adult and continuing education. Participants will come away with a list of “revolutionary” adult learning methods of the past fifty years and their impact. They will also leave with a set of criteria for gauging when the Glorious Instructional Revolution has finally been won.

Dr. Harold D. Stolovitch has been a teacher, trainer, researcher and consultant for over thirty years and has authored more than one hundred books, reports, chapters and articles on various aspects of instructional and performance technology. Dr. Stolovitch is a professor at the Université de Montréal, and a visiting scholar and senior research associate at the University of Southern California.

ILLITERACY AND ETHNOLINGUISTIC MINORITIES: REFLECTION ON THE SITUATION IN CANADA

Most industrialized countries are confronted with a high level of illiteracy among their minority groups. Consequently, the language and culture of education are at stake and have a direct impact on the linguistic and demographic development of the country. Canada is no exception to the rule.

Serge Wagner, a leader in the Canadian literacy movement, will speak on illiteracy and ethno linguistic minorities, and reflect on the situation in Canada. Dr. Wagner is a professor at the University du Québec à Montréal, and has contributed to the establishment of several French-language literacy groups throughout Québec and Ontario.

TEACHER’S DAY
Friday, October 18
(Unity Luncheon)

THE NEW DEMANDS OF LIFELONG EDUCATION

Society is changing...and so is education... What are the new demands in terms of lifelong education? How can these be fulfilled? Four panelists from four different interest groups will share their viewpoint. The panelists represent unions, business, community service, and international interests. Contributors will present their unique perspective and expectations of lifelong education in their particular area. The audience will be invited to engage in lively discussion.

Moderator: Jules Desrosiers, Ministère de l’Éducation du Québec.
Panelists: Michel Blondin, Fonds de solidarité des travailleurs du Québec (F.T.Q); Nicole Pageau-Goyette, Montréal Chamber of Commerce; Nancy Neamtam, Regroupement pour la relance économique et sociale du sud ouest (R.E.S.O.); Paul Bélanger, Director of the Institute de l’Éducation, UNESCO

MONTRÉAL AT A GLANCE

Location
The city of Montréal is located 187 feet above sea level on the island of Montréal, the largest of a group of islands at the convergence of the St. Lawrence and Ottawa rivers.

History
Montréal was first discovered by Europeans when Jacques Cartier arrived in 1535. The first permanent settlement was founded by Paul de Chomedey, Sieur de Maisonneuve, in 1642, thus making Montréal one of the oldest cities in America. Its past may be witnessed in a number of historic buildings, particularly in the Old Montréal area.

Size
Montréal is the largest French-speaking city outside of France. It is the largest of 28 municipalities within the Montréal Urban Community. One and three-quarter million people live on the island of Montréal, with slightly under three million in the total metropolitan area.

Languages
Six million people live in Québec, five million of which speak French. However, for almost a million people living on the island of Montréal, their mother tongue is not French. Today, 35 different languages are spoken in the city, and Montréalers have ancestral links to 41 countries. English is spoken currently, particularly in the West End, and English is the mother tongue of 18% of the population. Italian, Greek and Chinese are also spoken here.

Transportation
The island of Montréal is a major transportation hub with a comprehensive network of highways, railroads, airlines and waterways. It is served by two international airports, that is the Dorval and Mirabel airports. The city itself has an extensive bus and subway system, with underground pedestrian walkways connecting most of the downtown commercial centers.

Climate
Montréal experiences a wide range of climatic conditions, with temperatures dropping as low as -27 °F (33°C) in mid-February and rising as high as 97 °F (36°C) in mid-July. In mid-October, the temperature varies from 47°F (8.7°C) to 50°F (10°C).

Currency
At the time of printing, the U.S. dollar is worth approximately 1.15 Canadian dollars. U.S. dollars can be exchanged in all major banks during banking hours, and at many offices easily accessible by metro.

Subway
You can use the subway to visit Montréal or to come to the conference. The Palais des Congrès is situated at the Place d'Armes Station.

Shuttle Service
An airport shuttle service runs between Dorval Airport and the conference hotels. The price is approximately $7 US each way. Also, AAAACE is providing shuttle service between the Convention Center and the Queen Elizabeth during conference hours.

Monday, Oct. 14th, 9:00 a.m. to 9:00 p.m.
Tuesday, Oct. 15th, 9:00 a.m. to noon

The Commission of Professors will host its annual meeting immediately preceding the AAACE conference. The conference will open with a general session organized around mutual concerns of the CPAE and the Canadian Association for the Study of Adult Education (CASAE). Features include a presentation by Francisco Vio Grassi, President of the International Council, general sessions, business meetings, self-reflection and critical reflection processes, task force meetings, and social functions.

For more information, call Phyllis Cunningham at (815) 753-1448 or Jim Fisher at (414) 229-5090

Commission on Continuing Professional Education Professionals’ Ways of Knowing and the Implications for CPE
Meridien Hotel
Sunday, Oct. 13th, 7:00 p.m. to 9 p.m.
Monday, Oct. 14th, 8:00 a.m. to 5:15 p.m.; reception: 5:30 to 7:30 p.m.
Tuesday, Oct. 15th, 7:45 a.m. to 12:15 p.m.

Professionals’ Ways of Knowing and the Implications for Continuing Professional Education is the theme of this year’s preconference. The varied program will include plenary sessions featuring internationally known speakers, informal round table discussions among all conference participants, and three simultaneous tracks during which presenters of more than thirty accepted papers will encourage participants to engage in a consideration of ways to link theory, research and practice. Continental breakfasts and a reception will provide additional opportunities to consider how continuing professional educators and practitioners of the many professions they serve know, think, and learn. Deborah Klevans, unit chair.

For more information, call Tom Pierson at (708) 869-3954.

Cooperative Extension
An Odyssey to Cooperative Extension’s Future
Queen Elizabeth Hotel
Monday, Oct. 14th, 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.
Tuesday, Oct. 15th, 8:00 a.m. to noon

Advance study circles will identify and name the focus of this year’s session, An Odyssey to Cooperative Extension’s Future. The preconference will open with a panel of leaders from both the U.S. and Canada, and topics covered will be the academic and practitioners’ perspectives on the theme. A workshop format will engage participants in lively discussion.

For more information, call Marilyn Grantham at (612) 625-4252.

Conference Presenting Skills Workshop
Queen Elizabeth Hotel
Tuesday, Oct. 15th, 9:00 a.m. to noon

Panel discussions, lectures, and small group discussion are all types of presentations that require special skills of the presenter. In this session we will explore some presentation skills and how they can be able to 1) effectively plan and present to achieve desired results, 2) determine which technique best fits the situation; 3) improve the format, organization, and handling of audio visuals; and 4) involve the audience and maintain interest. Faculty for the session include Paulette T. Beatty, Texas A & M University; Don F. Seaman, Texas A & M University; Linda A. Smith, University of Texas Health Science Center; and Fredric A Weiss, San Anonio College.

For more information, call Paulette Beatty at (409) 845-5460.

Tuesday, Oct. 15th, 9:00 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.

In the International Adult Education Workshop, prominent adult educators from around the globe will discuss and compare philosophies, objectives, perspectives and international relationships. The International preconference will have special significance this year as the AAACE moves out of the boundaries of the U.S. and into Canada for its annual conference.

For more information, call Richard Henstrom at (801) 378-4149.

National Adult Education Staff Development Consortium
Queen Elizabeth Hotel
Tuesday, Oct. 15th, 8:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. (includes luncheon)

Rapid developments in adult literacy and basic skills education are happening without a clear consensus on philosophy or approach. This workshop will review important new activities in staff development followed by a structured discussion about the emerging profession. Session includes working lunch.

For more information, call William Sperling at (206) 587-3880.
EXHIBITS ’91

Once again, AAACE will hold its Annual Exposition in conjunction with the annual conference. The Odyssey to the Future Exposition will be the first chance for Canadian and American exhibitors to meet. Exhibitors will be on hand to demonstrate the newest products and services to meet your daily needs. Examine products including audio-visual, computer hardware, computer software, curriculum aides, GED materials, membership services, professional development opportunities, publications, registration materials, testing and assessment services and much much more!

The Odyssey to the Future Exposition is your opportunity to learn from the experts, do some price comparisons in a relaxed and convenient atmosphere, and learn who has the latest techniques available for your use!
