Ohio Association for Adult and Continuing Education
Ohio Literacy Network
Ohio Vocational Association
Ohio Department of Education/Adult Basic and Literacy Education
Indiana Association for Adult and Continuing Education
Correction Education Association (CEA Region III)

The American Association for Adult and Continuing Education
The following speakers will be addressing professionalism, accountability, collaboration and technology issues from a variety of perspectives, including government, education and business. Since the field of adult learning is in transition, how can adult educators improve their professional preparation as they enter the next millennium? What can be done to ensure quality professional development? Step one: Attend the AAACE Annual Adult Education Conference. Be informal and informed.

Education's Role in Providing an Opportunity to Live the Great American Dream

Frank T. Brogan, Florida's Commissioner of Education, has dedicated his life to providing educational opportunities for learners of all ages and has earned numerous accolades for his innovative approaches. At the age of 41, Brogan was elected as Florida's youngest commissioner of education. In two years, he has downsized the Florida Department of Education by 40% without compromising the quality of educational services. Nearly one-sixth of the department’s employees have won Davis Productivity Awards from TaxWatch, and Brogan has earned the American Federation of Teachers’ highest rating while guiding Florida to national leadership in standards development. He also serves as chair of the Florida Distance Learning Network and is a founding member of the state’s Education Leaders Council. Through his rise from humble beginnings to national leader, Brogan understands how personal sacrifice and commitment can lead to achieving one’s goals and aspirations.

The Impact of Education Technology on Workforce Preparation

Wendell L. Smith is dean of university outreach/extension and continuing education and director of telecommunications at the University of Missouri-St. Louis. He will be demonstrating how technology can effectively improve adult learning. Since Smith is a past president and lifelong member of AAACE, he thoroughly understands the educational challenges that each of us confront daily and how technology can help to address those challenges. In this general session, you will learn more about how educational technology can enhance the adult educator’s effectiveness.

Wednesday, November 12

Next Stop: One- Stops? –
A Service Provider Perspective

Greg Newton, principal of Newton Associates in Boston, Mass., is a nationally recognized leader in the development of comprehensive, one-stop career centers. Since Newton has extensive experience with non-profit and community-based organizations, he is uniquely qualified to suggest success strategies and operational implementation plans that can effectively link adult learner education levels with business skill requirements. He has successfully trained more than 14,000 employment and training professionals on how to recruit, train and find jobs for people. Moreover, Newton’s local, state and national experience brings real-world perspectives to labor-related public policy initiatives.

Thursday, November 13

Social Philosophy Colloquy

The Commission of Professors of Adult Education will sponsor another thought-provoking Social Philosophy Colloquy on November 13. The keynote speakers for this colloquy will be Michael Collins of the University of Saskatchewan and Mechthilde Hart of DePaul University. They will address critical issues impinging on all of us as human beings and as adult educators. Collins and Hart will also challenge the field of adult education from a number of perspectives—including professionalism, accountability, collaboration and technology.

Equipped for the Future

The National Institute for Literacy will provide adult educators with the most recent findings of their "Equipped for the Future" initiative from the perspective of three interrelated roles: the family, the community and the workplace. This initiative was designed to develop a set of voluntary, validated content standards for a number of skill areas that can be implemented nationwide. Institute director Andrew Hartman will lead a panel composed of representatives from the family, community and workplace.

AAACE General Membership Meeting
Tuesday, November 11
All AAACE members are invited to attend the association’s annual membership meeting on Tuesday, November 11. Scheduled activities include a swearing-in ceremony for new officers and directors, the president’s address, and association reports. This meeting will help you to better understand the issues that confront the association in particular and the field in general.

Concurrent Sessions and Roundtables
Monday, November 10–Wednesday, November 12
Each year adult educators are invited to submit proposals in more than 30 content areas represented by AAACE units and commissions. Based on these ranked proposals, AAACE will offer more than 200 concurrent sessions and roundtables. There are nine concurrent sessions and five roundtables scheduled throughout the conference.

Featured Tracks
This year AAACE offers a feature track running throughout the conference on public policy. We hope you will take this opportunity to discuss adult education policy with nationally recognized leaders.

AAACE Commission and Unit Mini-Conferences and Meetings
The following commissions and units will conduct open mini-conferences or events in which there is an additional fee to cover their operational costs:

(1) Commission of Professors of Adult Education (CPAE) mini-conference
(2) Adult Education Staff Development (AESD) Unit mini-conference
(3) International Unit mini-conference
(4) Women’s Issues, Status and Education Luncheon
(5) Commission on Continuing Professional & Higher Education Outreach

The following Commissions and Units will conduct open meetings in which there is no additional fee:

(1) Commission on Military Education and Training
(2) Commission on Adult Basic Education
(3) Commission on Affiliated Organizations
(4) Commission on Workforce Development
(5) Commission on Program Management
(6) Students of Adult Education Unit
(7) Adult High School Unit
(8) Adult Psychology Unit
(9) Aging Issues Unit
(10) Colleges and Universities Unit;
(11) ESL and Literacy Unit
(12) Health Professions Unit
(13) History and Philosophy of Adult Education Unit
(14) Minority and Human Rights Unit

Other activities include the Commission of Professors of Adult Education’s Social Philosophy Colloquy and the Aging Unit’s McClusky Symposium on Aging.
Conference Symposiaus

There will be three professional development symposiums for attendees to consider: (Each has a $35.00 registration fee to attend)

- The Symposium of Disability Issues, sponsored by the National Association for Adult with Special Learning Needs (NAASLN) and Empire State College, will specifically address ADA compliance issues, and how these special learners can become successful, and how adult education professionals can improve their skills. (Sunday, November 9)

- The Symposium on Work Keys at Work, sponsored by ACT and AAACE, will indicate how the Work Keys program can be effective, provide information of service provider training, and highlight the development of AAACE's Work Keys Center in St. Louis. (Sunday, November 9)

- The Symposium on One Stop Centers, sponsored by OMTI and AAACE, will focus on the federal policy for providing comprehensive services to adults, discuss national trends, and focus on what state and local service providers will need to do to remain effective. (Tuesday, November 11)

Program Site Visits

There will be three program sites to visit during the conference:

(1) a workplace literacy program and technology center;
(2) a family literacy program; and
(3) a vocational education program.

Transportation will be provided on a first come, first served basis. The cost for these visits is included in the conference registration fee.

Continuing Education Units (CEUs)

For a small fee, conference attendees can earn professional development CEUs for attending presentations in 8 of 9 concurrent sessions and in 4 of 5 roundtable discussions. A record of all AAACE-related CEUs is maintained by the International Registry of Continuing Education and Training (IR CET). IR CET can also provide transcripts. For additional information, contact the AAACE office at (202) 429-5131.

CORPORATE SPONSORS

AAACE Wishes to Express Its Gratitude to the Following Sponsors:

Cambridge Adult Education Awards Reception

Contemporary Books Rock & Roll Dance

Steck-Vaughn Attendee Totes

For sponsorship opportunities, please contact Gail Sparks at (202) 857-1881.
Teachers and Practitioners Day
Monday, November 10

On Monday, November 10, a special professional development emphasis will be added for those Cincinnati regional area teachers and practitioners who can only spend one day at a national conference. Certain concurrent sessions and roundtable discussions will be highlighted to maximize their one opportunity to attend the Annual Adult Education Conference.

Exhibits
Sunday, November 9–Tuesday, November 11

Visit the conference’s trade show and learn about state-of-the-art products, services and programs on display. The exhibit hall opens Sunday with the official ribbon-cutting ceremony and continues through Tuesday. Exhibitors will have workshops throughout the conference to explain in detail their new products. The Grand Opening of exhibits is on Sunday, November 9. Exhibitors will also be providing giveaways during the conference. Be sure to thank each exhibitor for supporting the field.

Awards Reception and Program
Wednesday, November 12
Sponsored by Cambridge Adult Education

The AAACE Awards Committee is planning another exciting Reception and Awards Program on Wednesday, November 11. Awards presented will include the President’s Award, the Membership Award, the Outstanding Service Medallion, the Outstanding Adult Learner of the Year, the Houle Award, the Okes Award, and Commission awards. Join us in acknowledging these exceptional efforts by your colleagues. A small fee will be charged to help offset the costs.

Rock and Roll Dance
Monday, November 10
Sponsored by Contemporary Books

Always a great evening. The popular “Rock & Roll” dance event is a chance to wake up those old bones with music from the ‘50s and ‘60s.

Northern New England Literacy Theater
Monday, November 10

This nationally acclaimed improvisational theater group will present a series of scenarios that focus on critical issues in the lives of teachers, administrators and students as they interact in the adult educational setting.

McClusky Symposium on Aging
Monday, November 10

Once again, AAACE’s Unit on Aging Issues will present a symposium on the latest best practices for older adult learners. This symposium is open to all attendees.

AAACE Bookstore

The association will be presenting two of its newest publications: Unlocking the Cell: A Humanities Model for Marginalized Women (by Irene Baird, $9.95) and Adults in Transition (by Mary Alice Wolf and Meredith Leathy, $19.95). AAACE also will present a number of other publications as well as association-related products such as caps, fanny packs and umbrellas. The bookstore will be located in the exhibit hall.

OAACE-Sponsored Events

The Ohio Association for Adult and Continuing Education (OAACE) will be sponsoring a number of events during the Annual Adult Education Conference, including a hospitality suite (Saturday, November 8), a sock hop with a DJ (Monday, November 9), and an Ohio professional development track throughout the conference. All attendees are welcome to see what’s happening in the Buckeye State.

Unique Opportunities

- There will be a public hearing on adult education and literacy issues conducted by the U.S. Department of Education’s Office of Vocational and Adult Education, the National Institute for Literacy, and the National Center for the Study of Adult Learning and Literacy on Sunday, November 9.

- “Equipped for the Future,” the National Institute for Literacy’s (NIFL) initiative to develop national validated-content standards for skills within the roles of family, citizen and worker, will be highlighted as a concurrent colloquy on Wednesday, November 12.
