History

In 1988, the New York State Judicial Commission on Minorities, headed by noted African American attorney Franklin Hall Williams, examined the treatment of minority litigants and court employees. Following hearings in New York City on June 29th and 30th of that year, Rockwell Chin approached Commissioner Serene K. Nakano to discuss the need for an organization for Asian American attorneys. While Chinese and Korean American lawyer associations existed, there had never been an association of Asian American lawyers in New York.

Further impetus came when the National Asian American Bar Association (later called NAPABA) Planning Committee invited various attorneys in New York City to Chicago in October 1988. A core group, including Rockwell Chin, Glenn Ikeda, Yat T. Man, Steve Min and Serene K. Nakano, worked to found a formal association of Asian American lawyers: drafting organizational documents, reaching out to New York and nationwide bar groups, and contacting other Asian American attorneys.

Announcing AABANY’s incorporation on October 20, 1989, the group invited attorneys to an inaugural reception at New York University Law School on November 9, 1989. Among the speakers were Judge Dorothy Chin Brandt, Judge Randall Eng, Judge Peter Tom, past president of the American Immigration Law Association Benjamin Gim, Professor Sharon Hom, AALDEF Program Director Stanley Mark, and former NYPD Deputy Commissioner Hugh Mo. All of the speakers emphasized the unfulfilled need for AABANY. The reception was a resounding success, with over 180 attorneys and law students attending. Before the meeting concluded, over 60 people had joined AABANY.

AABANY, operating under an interim board during its first year, hosted further receptions, including evening social events, as well as a meeting at Brooklyn Law School at which Hoyt Zia, then the first President of NAPABA, spoke. Newly formed committees also sprang into action. The Issues Committee, co-chaired by Rockwell Chin and Marilyn Go, began research on redistricting, assisted lobbying for bias crimes legislation and spoke out against bias incidents. The Business Law Committee, co-chaired by Ken Chin and Marilyn Go, established a speaker series of prominent Asian American attorneys. The Events Committee hosted a Fall picnic. Prompted by concerns raised by law students at the picnic, Chin Fong and James Minamoto established a student mentor program, presenting a job skills workshop to help law students hone interviewing skills.

On January 12, 1991, AABANY held its first annual meeting, electing Serene Nakano, Doris Ling-Cohan, Steve Min, Glenn Ikeda and Marilyn Go as officers and Rockwell Chin, Sylvia Fung Chin, Merlin Liu, Stanley Mark, Qazi Moid and Judge Peter Tom as directors.

Now one of the most prominent and active minority bar associations in New York, AABANY currently has approximately 1,000 members, including practicing attorneys in the private and public sectors, in-house lawyers, judges, professors and law students.
Dear AABANY Members, Friends and Supporters,

Welcome to AABANY’s 2018 Annual Dinner and thank you for your generous support for AABANY. Our theme tonight is “Serving Our Community, Advancing Our Profession.” Tonight we honor four prominent lawyers who have made an impact serving our community and advancing our profession. Alphonso David, Counsel to the Governor of New York, has dedicated years to serving the public. Kathy Hirata Chin, Senior Counsel at Cadwalader, Wickersham & Taft LLP, has been a leader in the private sector and tirelessly served the bar and local Asian American community. Mark Steffensen, Senior Executive Vice President & General Counsel, HSBC North America Holdings Inc., has been a staunch advocate for in-house diversity. Finally, the Honorable Goodwin Liu, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of California, has highlighted the challenges Asian American lawyers face in the legal profession through his seminal “Portrait Project” research.

Consistent with this year’s theme, AABANY intends to focus on two priorities this year – i.e., serving our community and advancing our profession.

AABANY’s commitment to pro bono work

We believe our members have an obligation to give back to the community, and to help the most vulnerable members of the local Asian community. Asians in the City have higher rates of poverty than other minority groups, and often lack access to basic legal services. To address this problem, AABANY holds a monthly pro bono clinic in Manhattan where volunteer attorneys and students provide free legal services to the local Asian community. We are particularly proud of our pro bono clinic. Last year, more than 50 volunteer attorneys and 23 interpreters served more than 300 clients in their native language, and donated more than 327 hours of pro bono services. Because of the success of AABANY’s pro bono clinic and with your continuing support, we hope to expand our pro bono services.

AABANY’s commitment to training tomorrow’s leaders today

Justice Liu’s 2017 “Portrait of Asian Americans in the Law” study found that even though Asian Americans have been the fastest growing minority group in the legal profession for the past three decades, we have made only limited progress in reaching the top ranks of the profession, often hitting a bamboo ceiling when it comes to leadership positions.

AABANY recognizes the need to address the under-representation of Asian Americans in leadership positions. We are excited about a new program we are launching in March called the “Leadership Development Program.” Through this program, we will cultivate a select group of law firm associates, and help them navigate the law firm partnership-selection process. Partners, in-house attorneys, and business development coaches will mentor participants, provide practical insights into the partnership process, help participants refine their “soft skills,” and guide participants in developing a plan for making partner. With your ongoing support, AABANY hopes to expand this leadership development program to address issues facing lawyers in the corporate world and public sector.

These are two of the many programs AABANY offers to serve our community and advance our profession.

I would like to thank Dwight Yoo for his unflappable leadership as AABANY President this past year, and the committed staff, Board members, officers, committee chairs, members and volunteers for their contributions to AABANY. Thank you again for joining us at our Annual Dinner and generously supporting AABANY.

James R. Cho
President-Elect
Dear AABANY Members and Supporters:

I feel privileged to have served as President of the Asian American Bar Association of New York (AABANY) this past year. One of the largest and most active minority state bar associations, AABANY continues to be a leading voice for Asian Pacific Americans (APA) and instrumental in advocating for and executing positive changes in law firms, companies, the judicial branch, government and the public sector, law schools and the broader APA community.

I want to say thank you to our talented and driven board of directors, committee chairs and staff. While it has not been easy for me balancing the demands of a law firm partner, family life, volunteer commitments and faith with the demands of this leadership position, your passion and dedication have consistently inspired me and kept the organization moving forward.

AABANY should be proud of the many accomplishments it achieved over the past year, many of which are described in detail in AABANY’s 2017 Year End Report and on its website www.aabany.org. We, however, should be cognizant that there is still work to be done. I am encouraged by the significant interest expressed by our members and supporters to lead or participate in our many initiatives, including a soon-to-be-launched initiative to address the disproportionate underrepresentation of APAs in law firm partnerships and to help talented APAs achieve the promotion their talent deserves.

I believe AABANY is in a much stronger place today compared with where it was in the past, and similarly will be in an even stronger position next year under the leadership of James Cho, our incoming President. I look forward to working with you on AABANY initiatives in AABANY’s new fiscal year and seeing firsthand the progress AABANY makes.

Respectfully,

Dwight S. Yoo
President
Dear AABANY Members and Friends,

Welcome to the 2018 AABANY Annual Dinner. Once again, we are delighted to share an evening of awards and recognitions, catching up with old friends even as we make new connections or rekindle ones that may have lapsed because we all know how life can get sometimes.

As we look back upon yet another year full of topical programs and enjoyable events, I take this opportunity to shine the light on two of our committees and one of our members. AABANY’s Committees are the lifeblood of the association, and without their volunteer efforts, none of our members or friends in the community would be able to reap the benefits of their CLEs, networking events and other programming throughout the year.

Each year, AABANY recognizes at its Annual Meeting of Members a Committee of the Year, Event or Program of the Year, and a Member of the Year. At the Annual Meeting held on February 13 at Dorsey & Whitney, we presented awards to:

• The Immigration Law Committee for Committee of the Year
• The Pro Bono Clinic for Program of the Year
• Samuel Lui for Member of the Year

The Immigration Law Committee stepped up during a turbulent time when immigrants came under attack around the country. The Committee and its members wasted no time in holding webinars and know-your-rights programs, whether on its own or in collaboration with other groups and associations, to help protect the rights of immigrants, including many in the New York Asian American community. The Committee organized and presented programs and events during the next several months in further pursuit of that goal.

The Pro Bono Clinic, first launched at the end of 2015, grew over the course of the next two years to serve hundreds of clients from the community, many of whom could not access legal assistance due to economic, linguistic or cultural barriers. Helmed by the Pro Bono Committee, the Pro Bono Clinic was held every second Wednesday of each month, seeing upwards of 30 clients each night over the course of two hours. The Committee reached out to AABANY’s members to find volunteers to provide legal assistance to community members in need, without charging a fee and without regard to their ability to pay. Law students and non-lawyers stepped in to translate for clients who did not speak English. The clinic provided a meaningful way for our members to give back and use their legal skills to help many who needed it.

No program can succeed without leaders and good people willing to dedicate their skills, time and resources to make a positive impact. Samuel Lui, as Co-Chair of the Pro Bono Committee, helped launch the Pro Bono Clinic in 2015 and then stayed with it for more than two years to drive its growth. Even though the clinic was scheduled to start at 6:30 pm, usually by an hour before, a long line already started in the hallway leading to the offices of the Chinese Chamber of Commerce in Confucius Plaza, in Chinatown, where the clinic has been held. Sam would arrive early to meet the clients and would speak to them in Cantonese or Mandarin – and sometimes in Japanese – to determine what their legal issue was so that he could connect them to an appropriate volunteer. Sam was a vital part of the clinic, and when he announced his departure to take a position on the West Coast, the loss was immediately felt by his friends and colleagues in the clinic, the Committee and the AABANY community.

Each of our award recipients for Committee of the Year, Program of the Year and Member of the Year exemplified the theme to “Take Charge, Lead Change” in 2017, and they also stand ready to fulfill the 2018 theme of “Serving Our Community, Advancing Our Profession.”

As we celebrate another banner year at AABANY, please join me in congratulating the Immigration Law Committee, the Pro Bono Clinic, and our Member of the Year for all their outstanding work, with our deepest appreciation for their contributions to AABANY and to the community we serve.

Happy Lunar New Year!

Yang Chen
Executive Director
Richard Lui is a media content and digital-social specialist with 30 years of experience in television, technology, and business.

Lui is a veteran journalist and news anchor currently at MSNBC and NBC News, and before that, news anchor at CNN Worldwide, where he became the first Asian American male to anchor a daily national news broadcast in the U.S. He has covered every U.S. national election since 2004, interviewing hundreds of politicians, from Detroit Mayor to U.S. President. In the 2016 cycle, he focused on digital, working class, and fake news impacts on the election outcome.

Lui is also a technologist with a wide-reaching business career going back to the 1990s. He launched five technology brands over three technology cycles, most recently an artificial intelligence company in Silicon Valley in 2016. While at Citibank Singapore, he co-founded and patented a fintech Visa-like payments backbone and was a management consultant at Mercer for an IBM joint venture.

Lui sits on four boards of directors / advisers in spaces ranging from international relations to artificial intelligence. He is a 2016 Governance Fellow for the National Association of Corporate Directors.

Lui’s accolades and achievements include the top echelon of business, political and journalism distinctions. He has been recognized for his reporting from national organizations including the National Education Association, Advancing Justice, AAJA, NAAAP 100 and WWAAC in addition to being a team Emmy and team Peabody recipient. He is ranked globally in the top 1% of social media users by Twitter Counter. Business Insider named Lui one of 21 careers to watch alongside Warren Buffett and Sheryl Sandberg. And more lightheartedly ranked three years in a row by Mediaite as one of the “50 Sexiest in TV News.”

Lui is a Policy Fellow at the University of California Riverside where he explores the cross of public policy and media, UN Spokesperson for the HeForShe Campaign, one of 200 active US State Department Traveling Speakers, and ambassador for NGOs focusing on gender equality and human trafficking.

Lui graduated from City College of San Francisco with A.S. Honors in Math and Science, UC Berkeley with a B.A. Honors Rhetoric, and the Ross School of Business at the University of Michigan with an MBA.

A first generation Chinese and Polynesian American, Lui has a twist in his background. Because his grandfather, an unauthorized immigrant, filed false “Paper Son” documents, Lui’s real last name is Wong.
Kathy Hirata Chin is Senior Counsel at Cadwalader, Wickersham & Taft LLP, where she is a member of the litigation group specializing in healthcare and real estate issues. Ms. Chin graduated from Princeton University magna cum laude and Columbia Law School, where she was Editor-in-Chief of the Journal of Transnational Law.

Ms. Chin started her legal career at Cadwalader in 1980 and became a Partner in 1990. She was Team Leader of the firm’s Diversity Initiative in 2013-2014, an inaugural member of the Task Force for the Advancement of Women, and is currently a member of the Oversight Committee for the firm’s Center for Diversity & Inclusion.

She has served the City of New York as a Commissioner on the New York City Planning Commission from 1995 to 2001 and as a Commissioner on the New York City Commission to Combat Police Corruption, a position she has held since 2003. She has also served on the Federal Magistrate Judge Merit Selection Panel for the Eastern District of New York, former Chief Judge Judith Kaye’s Commission to Promote Public Confidence in Judicial Elections, the Second Circuit Judicial Conference Planning and Program Committee, and the Board of Directors of the New York County Lawyers Association. She currently serves on the Attorney Emeritus Advisory Council and the Commercial Division Advisory Council, appointed to both by former Chief Judge Jonathan Lippman, and on the Board of Directors of the Medicare Rights Center and of New York Lawyers for the Public Interest.

In December 2012 and again in December 2014, she was nominated for appointment to the New York State Court of Appeals by the Commission on Judicial Nomination. In May 2015, the New York City Bar honored Ms. Chin with its Diversity and Inclusion Champion Award. In April 2016, she was appointed by Governor Andrew Cuomo to the First Department Judicial Screening Committee.

Since September 1, 2017, she has served as Co-Chair of the Enhance Diversity in the Profession Committee of the City Bar. Since January 2016, she has been a member of the Second Circuit Judicial Council Committee on Civic Education & Public Engagement, focusing on historic reenactments as a teaching tool with her husband, the Honorable Denny Chin of the Second Circuit Court of Appeals. Their son Paul is an educator who has taught in charter schools in Newark, Los Angeles, Indianapolis and Brownsville, Brooklyn; their son Daniel is an intern at a sports and pop culture website and podcast network founded by a well-known sportswriter.

Ms. Chin has also been a member of the Don H. Liu Scholar Selection Committee since the program’s inception.
Alphonso B. David
Counsel to the Governor, State of New York

Alphonso B. David is an attorney, law professor and policy advisor with significant litigation and management experience in the public, private, and not-for-profit sectors.

In 2015, Mr. David was appointed by New York State Governor Andrew Cuomo to serve as Counsel to the Governor. In this role, Mr. David functions as the Governor’s chief counsel and principal legal advisor, and oversees all significant legal and policy deliberations affecting New York State including evaluating proposed legislation; implementing laws and policies; and formulating the State’s posture in both affirmative and defensive litigation.

Prior to his appointment as the Governor’s Chief Counsel, Mr. David served for four years in the Governor’s cabinet as the Deputy Secretary and Counsel for Civil Rights, the first position of its kind in New York State. In this capacity, he was responsible for a full range of legal, policy, legislative, and operational matters affecting civil rights and labor throughout the State. Mr. David also previously served as Special Deputy Attorney General for Civil Rights for the Office of the New York State Attorney General, where he managed up to a dozen Assistant Attorneys General on a variety of investigations and affirmative litigation, including employment and housing discrimination, fair lending, reproductive rights, and anti-bias claims. Further, he previously served as Deputy Commissioner and Special Counselor at the New York State Division of Human Rights.

Prior to working in the public sector, Mr. David served as a staff attorney at the Lambda Legal Defense and Educational Fund. At Lambda Legal, Mr. David litigated precedent-setting civil rights cases across the nation affecting lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender individuals as well as those living with HIV. He handled both affirmative and defensive matters relating to marriage, parenting rights, discrimination in schools, and access to health care. In addition, Mr. David served as a litigation associate at the law firm Blank Rome LLP. He began his legal career as a judicial clerk to the Honorable Clifford Scott Green in the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania.

For the past decade, Mr. David has served as an Adjunct Professor of Law. He began his work in academia with Fordham University Law School and most recently with Benjamin N. Cardozo School of Law, teaching “Constitutional Law: Sexuality and the Law.”

Mr. David is a graduate of the University of Maryland and Temple University School of Law.
Justice Goodwin Liu is an Associate Justice of the California Supreme Court. He was confirmed to office by a unanimous vote of the California Commission on Judicial Appointments on August 31, 2011, following his appointment by Governor Edmund G. Brown, Jr. on July 26, 2011. The Governor administered the oath of office to Justice Liu in a public ceremony in Sacramento, California on September 1, 2011. Before joining the state’s highest court, Justice Liu was Professor of Law at the UC Berkeley School of Law (Boalt Hall). His primary areas of expertise are constitutional law, education law and policy, and the U.S. Supreme Court. He has published widely on these subjects in books, law reviews, and the general media.

The son of Taiwanese immigrants, Justice Liu grew up in Sacramento, where he attended public schools. He went to Stanford University and earned a bachelor’s degree in biology in 1991. He attended Oxford University on a Rhodes Scholarship and earned a masters degree in philosophy and physiology. Upon returning to the United States, he went to Washington, D.C. to help launch the AmeriCorps national service program and worked for two years as a senior program officer at the Corporation for National Service.

Justice Liu graduated from Yale Law School in 1998, becoming the first in his family to earn a law degree. He clerked for Judge David Tatel on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the D.C. Circuit and then worked as Special Assistant to the Deputy Secretary of the U.S. Department of Education, where he developed and coordinated K-12 education policy. He went on to clerk at the U.S. Supreme Court for Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg during the October 2000 Term. In 2001, he joined the appellate litigation practice of O’Melveny & Myers in Washington, D.C., and worked on an array of antitrust, white collar, insurance, product liability, and pro bono matters.

Justice Liu serves on the Council of the American Law Institute, on the Board of Directors of the James Irvine Foundation, and on the National Academy of Sciences Committee on Science, Technology, and Law. He has previously served on the Board of Trustees of Stanford University and the board of directors of the American Constitution Society, the National Women’s Law Center, and the Public Welfare Foundation. In 2008, he was elected to the American Law Institute. He has also served as a faculty advisor to the California College Prep Academy, a public charter school co-founded by UC Berkeley and Aspire Public Schools.
Mark A. Steffensen is SEVP and General Counsel of HSBC North America Holdings (“HNAH”), HSBC USA and HSBC Bank USA. He previously held various roles within HNAH, including Managing Director and General Counsel of Global Banking and Markets, Americas and U.S. General Counsel of Wholesale Banking. Prior to HSBC, Mr. Steffensen was a senior attorney at Morgan Stanley, supporting fixed income, structured products and FX, and was previously associated with the law firms of Davis Polk and Vedder Price. He is also a former Special Counsel to the SEC’s Division of Market Regulation (now Trading & Markets), where he focused on the creation, implementation and enforcement of rules governing broker-dealers and other regulated entities. Mr. Steffensen received his J.D. from the University of Iowa, where he was a member of the Law Review, and holds an MBA from the University of Iowa, College of Business, where he was a lecturer.
Don H. Liu Scholars Program

Founded in 2014 by two past presidents of the Asian American Bar Association of New York (“AABANY”), the Don H. Liu Scholars Program, Inc. (“Program”) seeks to identify, cultivate and inspire future Asian American leaders within the legal profession in order to address the single most important reality facing Asian American professionals today – the barrier to advancement.

Asian Americans remain grossly underrepresented in positions of influence, leadership and power within the legal profession. The number of Asian American partners in law firms and general counsel in our largest corporations do not reflect the diversity found in today’s law school classes or the ranks of junior associates at law firms. It is the mission of the Program to increase these numbers.

In its inaugural year, the Program awarded $15,000 each to its first two Don H. Liu Scholars (“Scholars”) and provided mentorship to ensure that each Scholar would start her career at a prominent law firm. In its second year and third year, the Selection Committee chose three Scholars who possess the greatest potential to both excel in the classroom and succeed at a top law firm or Fortune 500 corporation.

To support these emerging Asian American leaders, the Program will continue to award each Scholar a $15,000 scholarship (“Scholarship”). To qualify, each new Scholar must be a first year law student attending a law school in Connecticut, Delaware, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, or the District of Columbia, have completed one full semester, and intend to practice in the New York City metropolitan area private sector following graduation. In addition to the Scholarship, the Program will provide the Scholars mentorship and assistance with internship placement and career development.
AABANY 2018 Law Firm Diversity Award

The Asian American Bar Association of New York recognizes that its continued growth and development in the legal profession would not be possible without the commitment and support of law firms to diversity and inclusion efforts – both within their own law firms and in the broader legal community.

Starting in 2014, AABANY has sought to recognize one law firm each year for its extraordinary efforts to improve diversity and inclusion in our profession by presenting the AABANY Law Firm Diversity Award.

Applications were rated on four main criteria:

1. Demonstrated commitment to diversity as evidenced by a formal diversity plan committed to retention and promotion of women and minorities;
2. An established diversity pipeline of talent;
3. External activities, such as active participation in minority bar associations like AABANY and the diversity programs of mainstream bar associations;
4. The furtherance of AABANY’s mission, which includes the active and affirmative recruitment, retention, promotion, and development of APA lawyers in New York City.

AABANY is honored to present its 2018 Law Firm Diversity Award to Paul, Weiss, Rifkind, Wharton & Garrison LLP.

This award recognizes Paul, Weiss, Rifkind, Wharton & Garrison LLP’s outstanding commitment to diversity and inclusion, including the recruitment, retention, and advancement of women, minorities, and LGBT attorneys and its active partnerships with minority bar associations like AABANY.

Please join us in congratulating Paul, Weiss, Rifkind, Wharton & Garrison LLP as the recipient of the 2018 AABANY Law Firm Diversity Award.

Pro Bono Clinic Volunteers

AABANY thanks the attorney and non-attorney volunteers who donated their time in 2017 at AABANY’s monthly pro bono clinic. Last year, our volunteers served more than 320 individuals, and donated more than 327 hours of pro bono services. AABANY holds its clinic the second Wednesday of every month. If you would like to volunteer, please contact AABANY.

The Asian American Law Fund of New York, Inc. (“AALFNY” or the “Fund”) was established by the Asian American Bar Association of New York (“AABANY”) in 1993 to support non-profit, charitable and education purposes within Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended (the “Code”). Though it has an independent Board, the Fund (formerly known as The AABANY Foundation, Inc.) remains affiliated with AABANY and continues to work in close coordination with AABANY on fundraising and pro bono programs. Contributions to the Fund are tax deductible to the full extent permitted by law.
The Asian American Bar Association of New York thanks the following sponsors for their support at our 2018 Annual Dinner.
