Baker Tilly congratulates Asian American Bar Association of New York
We are happy to support AABANY’s Fall Conference and thank them for the outstanding work they do in this community.
Dear Conference Attendees:

Welcome to AABANY’s 4th Annual Fall Conference which is also serving as this year’s NAPABA Northeast Regional Conference. I welcome all AABANY members, the members of our fellow Northeast affiliates and the members of NAPABA’s leadership that have joined us in New York City. I am excited about the diversity and strength of this year’s panels and CLEs and I thank all the participants, organizers and panelists for their hard work and dedication in creating something that I am sure will be a successful conference. Additionally, I would like to thank Weil Gotshal & Manges LLP for graciously offering to host our Fall Conference/Northeast Regional.

2013 has been a very busy year for AABANY. In our second quarter alone, AABANY has garnered 7 awards or recognitions for our members, held 7 special events, organized 14 panels or CLEs, participated in 8 community educational and outreach programs, and held 6 professional and social networking events. While the sheer volume of events that AABANY has hosted and/or organized to date is impressive, I am exceedingly pleased with how each of these events and our efforts have not only raised the profile of AABANY, but at the same time meaningfully enriched the lives and careers of our members and our community.

During APA Heritage Month in May, AABANY and the Asian American Arts Alliance (a4) presented “Iva: The Myth of Tokyo Rose, Allegiance on Trial,” at the Asia Society. “Tokyo Rose” was a fully staged theatrical production inspired by the life and trial of Iva Toguri, a Japanese American citizen accused of treason for allegedly broadcasting anti-American propaganda during WWII as the infamous “Tokyo Rose.” The production premiered on May 16th to a full house, followed by a May 17th matinee performance which also played to a full house, with many students from New York City schools in attendance. I am particularly thrilled at the opportunity this production afforded AABANY to appeal and engage with new segments of the APA community. I would like to thank a4 for staging and producing a wonderful and educational performance and AABANY continues to look forward to our ongoing partnership in making this event an annual “must see” during APA Heritage Month.

AABANY’s In-House Counsel and Corporate Law Committee held its 6th Annual Wine Tasting & Networking Reception at Inside Park at St. Bart’s on June 18th. With over 125 people in attendance, including in-house attorneys from 46 different organizations, the In-House Counsel and Corporate Law Committee Chairs were able to take a long-standing successful event to new and greater heights.

AABANY’s Prosecutors’ Committee celebrated its 5th anniversary at NYCLA with over 130 people in attendance, including U.S. Attorney Preet Bharara (SDNY), District Attorneys Robert Johnson (Bronx), Daniel Donovan (Richmond), Kathleen Rice (Nassau), Cyrus Vance, Jr. (New York), and Special Narcotics Prosecutor Bridget Brennan (New York). The Hon. Lorna Schofield (SDNY) and Hon. Pamela Chen (EDNY) were honored at the event as trailblazing judges. The tremendous turnout, together with the caliber of attendees, is a testament to the strength of our Prosecutors’ Committee and I congratulate them on a terrific event.
I’ve highlighted but a few of the many AABANY events that have occurred during our 2nd quarter. Each of these events, however, are examples of the breadth and reach of AABANY – from community based educational events such as “Tokyo Rose,” to private sector business development and networking events such as our winetasting reception, to our Prosecutors’ Committee celebration that drew a star-studded crowd of the top prosecutors in New York City and its surrounding areas.

As we continue to the second half of 2013, I encourage all our members to get more involved and to get their colleagues and friends more involved in AABANY. AABANY’s strength is not derived from its leadership, but from the thousands of APA lawyers and law students that are members of and/or supporters of AABANY. Given our numerous committees and diversity of events, I am confident that each of you can find your particular area of interest or expertise. This year’s theme for AABANY is “Making an Impact.” Our ability to do so, however, starts with each of you.

Sincerely,

Mike F. Huang
President, AABANY

The Asian American Bar Association of New York is a professional membership organization of attorneys concerned with issues affecting the Asian Pacific American community. Incorporated in 1989, AABANY seeks not only to encourage the professional growth of its members but also to advocate for the Asian Pacific American community as a whole. AABANY is the New York regional affiliate of the National Asian Pacific American Bar Association (NAPABA).

The History of AABANY

In 1988, the New York State Judicial Commission on Minorities, headed by noted African American attorney Franklin Hall Williams, examined the treatment of minority litigants and court employees. Following hearings in New York City on June 29th and 30th of that year, Rockwell Chin approached Commissioner Serene K. Nakano to discuss the need for an organization for Asian American attorneys. While Chinese and Korean American lawyer associations existed, there had never been an association of Asian American lawyers in New York.

Further impetus came when the National Asian American Bar Association (later called NAPABA) Planning Committee invited various attorneys in New York City to Chicago in October 1988. A core group, including Rockwell Chin, Glenn Ikeda, Yat T. Man, Steve Min and Serene K. Nakano, worked to found a formal association of Asian American lawyers: drafting organizational documents, reaching out to New York and nationwide bar groups, and contacting other Asian American attorneys.

Announcing AABANY’s incorporation on October 20, 1989, the group invited attorneys to an inaugural reception at New York University Law School on November 9, 1989. Among the speakers were Judge Dorothy Chin Brandt, Judge Randall Eng, Judge Peter Tom, past president of the American Immigration Law Association Benjamin Gim, Professor Sharon Hom, AALDEF Program Director Stanley Mark, and former NYPD Deputy Commissioner Hugh Mo. All of the speakers emphasized the unfulfilled need for AABANY. The reception was a resounding success, with over 180 attorneys and law students attending. Before the meeting concluded, over 60 people had joined AABANY.

AABANY, operating under an interim board during its first year, hosted further receptions, including evening social events, as well as a meeting at Brooklyn Law School at which Hoyt Zia, then the first President of NAPABA, spoke. Newly formed committees also sprang into action. The Issues Committee, co-chaired by Rockwell Chin and Marilyn Go, began research on redistricting, assisted lobbying for bias crimes legislation and spoke out against bias incidents. The Business Law Committee, co-chaired by Ken Chin and Marilyn Go, established a speaker series of prominent Asian American attorneys. The Events Committee hosted a Fall picnic. Prompted by concerns raised by law students at the picnic, Chin Fong and James Minamoto established a student mentor program, presenting a job skills workshop to help law students hone interviewing skills.

On January 12, 1991, AABANY held its first annual meeting, electing Serene Nakano, Doris Ling-Cohan, Steve Min, Glenn Ikeda and Marilyn Go as officers and Rockwell Chin, Sylvia Fung Chin, Merlin Liu, Stanley Mark, Qazi Moid and Judge Peter Tom as directors.

Now one of the most prominent and active minority bar associations in New York, AABANY has well over 2000 members and subscribers, including practicing attorneys in the private and public sectors, in-house lawyers, judges, professors and law students.

Office Politics 101 – How to Win The Popularity Contest at Work (ROOM 25A)
Program Chair: Julie Kwon, Kaufman Dolowich & Voluck, LLP

Panelists: Michael Chen, Bridgewater
          Don Liu, Xerox
          Caroline Tsai, Bank of America

Moderator: Wilson Chu, K&L Gates

APAs are often seen as either too shy or meek or too aggressive and obnoxious. How do you become present at meetings, parties and other events without being a jerk, especially when surveys show that APAs are the least trusted group in the office. Learn how to work the room AND the hallways! Learn to be, and be comfortable in being, the focus of the party! Learn the keys to winning the corporate or firm popularity contest, which could mean the difference between being a leader or a peon!

MICHAEL CHEN is currently the Management Partner and Strategic Advisor to the Chief Investment Officer at Bridgewater Associates. He joined Bridgewater Associates in 2012. Previously, he was the President of NBC News’ Strategic Initiatives Group & Education Nation (SIG) from 2011-2012. In this capacity, he was responsible for identifying growth opportunities for NBC News and overseeing several key news division properties, including Education Nation and NBC Learn. In addition, Michael Chen sat on the Board of Directors for The Weather Channel.

Prior to this role, Michael was President & CEO of GE Capital’s Media, Communications, and Entertainment (MCE) business, and was a Vice President and Officer of GE from 2007-2011. In addition, he founded the Peacock Equity Fund, a highly successful venture capital JV between GE Capital and NBCUniversal focused on digital media properties. He was co-Chair of the fund and oversaw all investments, which produced a 40+% IRR during this time period. In addition, he sat on GE’s Diversity Leadership Council and was the leader of the Asian Pacific American Forum, which had over 5,000 members.

Michael started his career in 1985 as a financial analyst for IBM. He joined GE in 1994 as Vice President for GE Capital Aviation Services (GECAS). He was named Senior Vice President and General Manager, North America in 1999. From 1999-2007, he grew net income 5x for this region.

Michael currently serves on the Advisory Council of the Johnson School at Cornell University and also has served on the Board of Directors for the Norwalk Community College Foundation and the Advisory Board for Sodexo Corporation. Michael has been featured in Forbes, the Wall Street Journal, and the syndicated radio program “The CEO Show.” Michael was named as one of the nation’s top sales and customer relationship individuals in the book “Secrets of Great Rainmakers” and was awarded “Dealmaker of the Year” in 2008 by The Executive Council. Michael is a regular public speaker at conferences, corporations, and universities on the topic of “Developing a Personal Brand for Success in Career and Life” using his unique “4 I’s” model.
In addition, he received the “Pinnacle Award” for Business Person of the Year by the Asian American Business Development Center (AABDC) in 2008, the “Distinguished Service Award” for Norwalk Community College in May 2010, and the “Who’s Who in Asian American Communities (WWAAC) Leaders and Legends Award” in August 2010.

This program will explore and provide practical advice on key legal issues currently facing the pharmaceutical industry: (i) patent infringement and validation actions; (ii) pharmaceutical fraud including off-label promotions; and (iii) biosimilars. Even though only 15% of approved drugs generate enough revenue to cover their own developmental costs, global spending on pharmaceutical research and investment has increased to over $60 billion per year. The average costs for discovering, developing and launching a new drug now exceeds $1.7 billion. However, the rewards for discovering a blockbuster drug are even higher. Over $600 billion of revenue is generated worldwide from prescription drugs every year, with the United States, the European Union and Japan being the biggest spenders. Pfizer’s cholesterol drug, Lipitor, alone has annual sales over $12 billion worldwide.

Pharmaceutical companies must navigate through many different laws and regulations in multiple jurisdictions regarding patenting, testing to ensure safety and efficacy, and marketing. With billions of dollars at stake, it is no surprise that few industries see more litigation. Significant areas of pharmaceutical litigation include patent infringement and validity actions, pharmaceutical fraud such as off-label promotions, and product liability class actions.

AABANY TAP will provide participants the opportunity to conduct their own openings, directs, cross-examinations, and closings and receive critique from our trained faculty. The TAP emulates the well-known NITA (National Institute for Trial Advocacy) Trial Skills programs, which is typically a week-long program that employs the “learning-by-doing” method by having attendees practice and improve upon their trial advocacy skills. A faculty of experienced trial attorneys and judges will discuss the basics of trial and provide personalized and invaluable critique and tips.

Participants will be assigned a partner in advance of the Fall Conference. They will receive the course materials before the program and are expected to be fully familiar with them. A directory of faculty and participants (and identification of who will be partnered together) will be emailed to participants. Presented by the Judiciary Committee (closed event by invitation only)

The purpose of this forum is for APA judges and interested AABANY members to (i) brainstorm and discuss ways to increase APA representation on the bench at the federal, state and local levels, including developing a pipeline of candidates, (ii) hear about the efforts that AABANY's Judiciary Committee has undertaken in this regard; and (iii) discuss any other issues of concern to the judiciary. AABANY’s Career Placement Committee Launches the AABANY Career Exchange

Who we are: AABANY’s Career Placement Committee’s primary purpose is to match qualified AABANY members with available legal jobs.

What we do: The Career Placement Committee is pleased to announce the launch of the AABANY Career Exchange which serves as a clearinghouse for all legal positions brought to the attention of the Committee. The Committee is proactively seeking to identify and promote qualified AABANY members for all such open positions. To accomplish this, the Committee is interested in (a) identifying available legal positions in all fields and (b) meeting with AABANY members (senior and junior) who are currently seeking or considering seeking a new position so that the Committee is aware of the skills sets, special expertise and interests of interested AABANY members.

Why this is important: Career placement is perhaps the single most important “benefit” AABANY can provide its members, particularly in the current environment which has resulted in unprecedented job dislocation amongst attorneys. Minority attorneys have been disproportionately affected by the dislocation.

What you can do: If you are aware of any open position in your organization or network or you are considering seeking a new position, please inform one of the Career Placement Committee co-chairs Robert Leung, Michael Park and Gurinder Singh at careers@aabany.org. All submissions will be forwarded to the Committee co-chairs. If there is a need to keep any submissions confidential, please let us know. Also pass along this request to others who would be interested in helping AABANY’s Career Placement Committee.

Questions or comments: Contact the Career Placement Committee co-chairs – Robert Leung, Michael Park or Gurinder Singh at careers@aabany.org.
