Neale Goldingay is an experienced IT professional with the American Addiction Treatment Association.

Neale prides himself on being able to do IT work while he travels. Originally from Birmingham, United Kingdom, he currently lives in Thailand. His past work experience has included selling and marketing merchandise for eBay, working for Big Edge Sports and managing the online sports store for numerous clients, and more. He learned very quickly how to best gather data and present it to potential viewers and decided to start building his own websites.

In 2012, he documented how to live in Thailand on $400 a month. Neale has a passion for cycling, and maintains a website that compiles information about tents.
