SEPTEMBER ISSUE OF HISPANIA NOW AVAILABLE

The September 2018 issue of Hispania \(101.3\) is now available in print and online. The issue highlights two articles on effective pedagogy for Spanish heritage language students, penned by Pamela Anderson-Mejías, and Claudia Holguín Mendoza, Robert Davis, and Julie Weise. Complementing these two articles is Francisco Salgado Robles' book review of Marta Fairclough and Sara M. Beaudrie's Innovative Strategies for Heritage Language Teaching. Mércia Regina Santana Flannery's article analyzes pressing concerns regarding offensive treatment towards Haitian immigrants in Brazil. Carol Ready writes about the metaphoric representation of Muslims in the Spanish media. Muriel Gallego and Rebecca Pozzi analyze mood production and recognition. Brian T. Chandler studies Jorge Volpi's En busca de Klingsor; Bryce Maxey examines the first part of La Araucana; and Euna Lee looks at code-switching in Killer Crónicas. The eighteen book/media reviews offer a variety of evaluations of new books. In the section on linguistics, language, and media, Amàlia Llobart-Huesca reviews Carmen Silva-Corvalán and Andrés Enrique-Arias's recent book, Sociolingüística y pragmática del español, and Frank Nuessel pens a review of Javier Muñoz-Basols's Portal de la lingüística hispánica/Hispanic Linguistics. Of interest will be Adrián Pérez-Boluda's review of Kathryn Ann Woolard's Singular and Plural: Ideologies of Linguistic Authority in 21st Century Catalonia. In addition to the three reviews on film, fiction, and poetry, the September issue also boasts seven reviews on Pan-Hispanic/Luso-Brazilian
