Study Description

One-page description of the study and its accomplishments, including the following headings

Objectives and Results:

Restate the proposed objectives and/or hypotheses, and summarize the results for each, including major findings, any problems encountered, and any objectives that were not met.

Impact and Relevance:

Discuss the anticipated impact of the study on zoo and wild animal health, welfare, and conservation.

Layperson Summary:

Provide an updated layperson summary briefly summarizing the background, findings, and impact of the study in easy-to-understand terms suitable for use in AAZV publicity and development communications.

Please include high-quality photographs of the project, field work, lab work, species, or any other images suitable for use in AAZV publicity and development communications, as separate email attachments.

Publications

List any accepted, submitted, or planned publications or conference presentations resulting from this study, and include any completed abstract(s) or publication(s) as email attachments.

For acknowledgement in publications and presentations please state the following: “Funds were provided by the American Association of Zoo Veterinarians’ Wild Animal Health Fund.”

Wild Animal Health Fund logo images are available from the AAZV office (admin@aazv.org) for use in presentations of funded research and other marketing opportunities.

Budget

Please use the table below if possible; this is an embedded Microsoft Excel table and will automatically total the columns. Convert all amounts to US$. For grants awarded in 2023 or later, do not include publication funding in this table.
