Clothing

Welcome to Colorado! Your guess is as good as ours.
- Coat
- Beanie or hat
- Maybe a scarf for fashion
- Gloves
- In Colorado, your best bet is to plan on wearing layers. If it gets hot you can shed a layer, if it gets cold you can always add. Our weather does change periodically. It could be 10 degrees out side but if the sun is shining it is warm, if there is cloud coverage its cold.
- Chacos or flip flops (yes, the rumors are true, we wear them year-round). Pack comfortable shoes and warm shoes.
- Socks, and then extra socks
- Robe?
- Swimsuit
- Belt

Toiletries
- Shampoo
- Conditioner
- Soap, if you want more than what is in the hotels
- Toothbrush
- Toothpaste
- Deodorant
- Razer
- Sunscreen (I know it sounds silly but we are actually closer to the sun and if you plan to go play in the snow, the reflection could cause a sunburn too)
- Hair styling products
- Lotion (It's a dry cold here!)
- Brush/Comb
- CHAPSTICK (this will be your best friend)
- Hand sanitizer? We shake a lot of hands around here

Extras
- WATER BOTTLE! Welcome to the Mile-High city! Altitude can really affect people. It will affect you different from others. Drink water and drink water a lot especially if you are from a lower altitude. Altitude sickness is a real issue.
- Tylenol (for the altitude)
- Sunglasses
- Wallet
- Backpack? Purse? Satchel? Man Pouch?
- Pens
- Business cards
- Passport
- Driver's License

Hacks
- To prevent bottles leaking, place plastic wrap over the container and then seal it with the lid.
- Bring an extra shower cap to put your shoes in when putting them in your suite case. If it ends up being muddy while you are in Denver, you wont get it on your clothes while you travel home
- Use a pencil case or a sunglasses case to store your charging cables in your bags so they don’t get lost, broken, or wrapped around anything
- If you are nervous about the airlines losing your luggage, take a picture of what is in your suitcase before you get to the airport. If it “disappears” the paperwork process goes quicker.
- To find your bag quicker, place a ribbon or a distinguishing mark on your bag.
