ACEC Scholarship Awards

ACEC Indiana recognizes the importance of attracting talented college students to consulting engineering. Each year, ACEC Indiana hosts a golf outing, which raises monies to provide meaningful scholarships to exceptional students. This year, ACEC Indiana awarded $20,000 to eight students from three different universities in the state.

The top recipient in 2017 is Zachary Nichols, who will complete his masters in civil engineering/engineering management in August 2018. Nichols is a member of ASCE, Chi Epsilon, Student Growing Sustainable Communities and the Secret Solar Society. Zach has interned with a plethora of firms including Michael Baker, Mussett Nicholas & Associates and most recently Affiliated Engineers. Nichols received the highest scholarship award in the amount of $5,500.

ACEC Indiana has awarded $265,000 in total to Hoosier college students who uphold the value of engineering for a better quality of life for future generations.

ACEC Indiana has set a precedent to give no less than $1,500 to each winning student and no less than $5,000 for the top applicant. All of these scholarships are checks written directly to the student for his/her personal use in school expenses.

Changes will be made to the eligibility requirements in 2018 that will encourage greater participation and inclusion of Indiana students. More information online at: http://www.acecindiana.org/?page=Scholarship.

Survey results were disseminated to participating ACEC Indiana member firms free of charge in May 2017. ACEC Indiana members who did not participate in the survey may purchase the survey results online starting in June 2017 for a cost of $150 at: http://www.acecindiana.org/store/view_product.asp?id=9167559.
